Kempthorne objects to tax cut

Governor suggests modest increase in school aid, rather than $15 million reduction

The Associated Press

2000 Legislature

More from Boise – B6

BOISE, – Gov. Dirk Kempthorne rejected the centerpiece of the House-passed $41 million election-year tax cut on Tuesday, arguing that the cash is needed for more pressing financial obligations.

He drew a quick rebuke from the chairman of the House tax-writing committee. But Kempthorne promised to support a major individual income tax cut next year if tax revenue continues increasing beyond projections.

In his first substantive statement in the eight weeks since he laid out a legislative agenda that has essentially been discarded by the Republican supermajority, the GOP chief executive called on lawmakers to approve his modest increase in state aid to public schools.

That aid package faces a $15 million reduction with passage of the key component of the tax cut – the $27 million 3 percent credit on the income tax that Kempthorne objects to.

"Maintaining a quality education system is a fundamental building block for the economy," he said.

An obviously disgusted Dolores Crow, the Nampa Republican who heads the House tax committee, said Kempthorne has given all the tax-cut critics political cover.

"In a year when we have so many dollars in surplus and the general fund is doing well, it just seems incredible to me that we couldn't afford to give back the overtaxation to the people of Idaho," Crow said.

The governor also said the $27 million to settle the interstate truckers' successful challenge

Bush, Gore wrap up nominations

Candidates trade barbs after securing needed delegates

The Associated Press

Democrat Al Gore and Republican George W. Bush clinched their presidential nominations in a sweep of Southern primaries Tuesday night, securing the delegates they needed to ensure a November matchup that quickly turned contentious.

Predicting victory in the fall, Bush tried to chain Gore to President Clinton's scandals. "He can't distance himself from the president when, for eight years, he's served as the cheerleader-in-chief," the Texas governor told supporters in remarks prepared for delivery.

Gore told The Associated Press that voters will soon get "a choice between keeping prosperity going or going back to the Bush-Quayle days of gigantic budget deficits and paralyzed democracy."

Their chief rivals vanquished less than a week ago, the Southern sons of political patriarchs racked up huge victories in Florida, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Texas and Louisiana. Exit polls exposed weaknesses of both general election candidates: Gore supporters were not as motivated as Bush's, while Texas Republicans reported little progress on education under Bush.

Saying Americans have "caught on" to Gore's political tactics, including questionable fund-raising in 1996, Bush said, "Al Gore can't solve campaign finance problems when he symbolizes them. He can't talk of rebuilding the military when his administration has dismantled our military."

Gore rattled off a laundry list of issues he would address, including education, health care, Social Security, Medicare and the national debt. And he suggested that Bush is beholden to his party's right wing, warning that the Texan would give anti-abortion evangelical leaders Pat Robertson and Jerry Falwell a "working majority" on the Supreme court.

"This election is a fork in the road: I represent one direction. He represents another," Gore told the AP.

Gore addressed supporters in Florida, a general election battleground and home of Bush's brother, Gov. Jeb Bush. "Governor George W. Bush and I have major differences (and)

Teacher faces battery charges

By Jennifer Sandmann
Times-News writer

SHOSHONE – Two families have pulled their students from Shoshone Elementary School and are pressing charges against a longtime third-grade teacher.

Jerry W. Hebbel, 52, of Shoshone, is scheduled for an arraignment March 29 on two counts of misdemeanor battery, according to 5th District Magistrate Court in Lincoln County. The charges were filed late Monday afternoon, in connection with separate incidents reported about a month ago.

Hebbel continues to teach, and the School Board is watching the court proceedings to see what happens, said Max Excell, superintendent of the Shoshone School District.

Excell said he is limited in what he can say because a personnel matter is involved, but the district is disciplining the teacher, and is not terminating him.

"We don't have a long history of that in his files, or anything else," Excell said.

Maria Morrison, the grandmother of a 9-year-old fourth-grader, said she removed her grandson and 6-year-old granddaughter from school last week and is teaching them at home.

In a court affidavit, Shoshone Police Chief Robert Quiroga said Hebbel grabbed Morrison's grandson by the backpack on Feb. 17 and let him fall onto the sidewalk. Bruises resulted, the affidavit says.

Pig clone holds hope for organ transplants

The Associated Press

BLACKSBURG, Va. – The company that cloned Dolly the sheep has produced the first cloned pigs, five little piggies named Millie, Christa, Alexis, Carrel and Dotcom that raise hopes for a new source of transplants for humans.

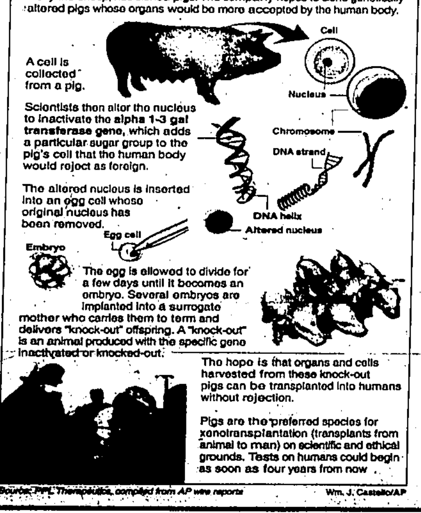
"I think this is a big step forward they've made. I applaud it," said Dr. Fritz Bach of Harvard Medical School, who studies genetic and immunological aspects of transplants from animals to people and was not involved in the cloning.

The piglets, delivered by Caesarean section March 5 at the Virginia-Maryland College of Veterinary Medicine, were produced by a subsidiary of PPL Therapeutics of Edinburgh, Scotland, which nearly four years ago created Dolly, the world's first clone of an adult mammal.

Please see CLONE, Page A4

Genetically altering pigs for humanity

PPL Therapeutics, the Edinburgh, Scotland-based company that cloned Dolly the sheep, has cloned pigs. The company hopes to clone genetically altered pigs whose organs would be more accepted by the human body.



A cell is collected from a pig.

Scientists then alter the nucleus to inactivate the alpha 1-3 gal transferase gene, which adds a particular sugar group to the pig's cell that the human body would reject as foreign.

The altered nucleus is inserted into an egg cell whose original nucleus has been removed.

The egg is allowed to divide for a few days until it becomes an embryo. Several embryos are implanted into a surrogate mother who carries them to term and delivers "knock-out" offspring. A "knock-out" is an animal produced with the specific gene inactivated or knocked-out.

The hope is that organs and cells harvested from these knock-out pigs can be transplanted into humans without rejection.

Pigs are the preferred species for xenotransplantation (transplants from animal to man) on scientific and ethical grounds. Tests on humans could begin as soon as four years from now.

Both sides weigh in over plan to ban snowmobiles

The Times-News and The Associated Press

BOZEMAN, Mont. – Yellowstone National Park's likely shift to ban snowmobiles altogether in two years and shift winter traffic to snowcoaches has met with some skepticism from southern Idaho snowmobilers and environmentalists.

Many members of the Magic Valley Snowmobilers make annual winter visits to Yellowstone or neighboring Grand Teton National Park, club member Vern Rehn said.

And Linn Kincannon of the Idaho Conservation League's Ketchum office fears the snowmobiles' effects would simply shift elsewhere.

At a meeting in Jackson, Wyo., between the Park Service and several state and local agencies working on a new winter use plan for Yellowstone and Grand Teton national parks, Yellowstone spokeswoman Marsha Karle said no final decision has been made.

She said the Park Service is leaning toward a modification of a proposal allowing the public to visit the park's interior only in snowcoaches or on skis or snowshoes. Karle did not have any details on what changes to the proposal were contemplated.

All other alternatives in the draft analysis allow varying degrees of snowmobile use.

The public owns the park, and it shouldn't be closed, Rehn said. Federal officials may have to limit numbers, but the club would oppose closing the park to snowmobiles, he said.

Simply closing the park doesn't resolve the larger issues of the inherent conflicts between snowmobilers and other, quiet users, Kincannon said.

"There are so many beautiful places in Idaho, if we just displace the snowmobiles, what have we gained?" she said. "People can't do everything, everywhere they want to any more."

Though most snowmobilers would probably find other places to go, closing Yellowstone is "bound to affect us some," said Bob Barnes, one of the owners of the R.V. Barn, a Twin Falls snowmobile dealer.

He disputes claims that snowmobiles scare the wildlife, pollute the air and unduly disturb

ACROSS THE NATION

Idaho: A cold front moved out of the state Tuesday afternoon and high pressure built in from the west. The latest satellite imagery depicted clouds associated with the front still over the majority of the state.

Skies were partly to mostly sunny statewide with light rain reported at Rexburg at 3 p.m.

Mid-afternoon temperatures ranged from 57 degrees at Caldwell and Mountain Home to 36 degrees at Stanley. Boise reported 54 and Pocatello recorded 52 degrees.

Nation: Thunderstorms with heavy rain gathered over southern Texas on Tuesday, and light snow showers streamed across the far northern tier of states.

A storm system moving into the northern Rockies and a cold front over the northern Plains produced scattered areas of light snow and snow flurries from the mountains of Idaho and Montana across the Plains into North Dakota and northern sections of Minnesota and Wisconsin.

A weather disturbance over the Plains produced a large area of wet, stormy weather over southern Texas.

very different goals. I believe in using our prosperity wisely and not taking the entire surplus and putting it into that special-interest roulette wheel from the 1980s that drove our economy into the ditch," he said, before bounding on stage to Tina Turner's "Simply the Best."

Gore, who once claimed to have invented the Internet, e-mailed Bush and renewed a challenge to renounce unlimited, unregulated donations called "soft money." Bush refused the offer, arguing that the donations are constitutional and Gore loyalists such as unions would not abide by the deal.

An AP analysis showed that Bush's delegate count would reach 1,090, and Gore's would reach at least 2,540 by the end of the night – far more than required.

Juli Snyder, whose 8-year-old son was in Hebbel's class, also pulled her boy from school last week after she said he told his parents that he didn't want to return. Snyder also is teaching her son at home.

In a letter to the School Board, written by Snyder and her husband Wayne, the Snyders say, "We have never seen him cry like he did that night. He even asked for help and if we could home-school him."

The Snyders provided a copy of their letter to The Times-News.

In another court affidavit, Quiroga said Hebbel grabbed the Snyders' son by the neck and caused a scratch that bled.

Both families met with the School Board on Monday night in closed meetings regarding a personnel issue.

Web site drops references to Catholicism, Mormonism

A new message on the site has Bob Jones III recounting how he contemplated on Christmas Eve "the growing worldwide hostility toward the evangelizing efforts of Bible-believing Christians."

But gone is the "President's Corner" message there as late as March 2 in which Jones said, "The diminution of evangelistic enterprise to cults which call themselves Christian, including Catholicism and Mormonism, is frightening."

The language was cited repeatedly after Texas Gov. George W. Bush was criticized for speaking on campus Feb. 2 to bolster his Republican presidential campaign following a loss in New Hampshire.

Bush went on to win the South Carolina primary over Arizona Sen. John McCain. But McCain made the visit a campaign issue, and Bush later apologized repeatedly for not challenging the school's interracial dating ban and anti-Catholic views.

Sen. Larry Craig Tuesday criticized the Park Service, and the White House.

"Once again, the Clinton-Gore administration has made a sudden decision based on faulty assumptions and incomplete data," said Craig, who pointed out that most winter visitors to Yellowstone show up by snowmobile.

About 75,000 people visit the park on snowmobiles each winter, most entering the park on the groomed road from West Yellowstone, Mont., to Old Faithful.

Under a different alternative, the Park Service had proposed to ban snowmobiles on that route and allow only buses and limited car traffic.

A final decision on winter use will be made by Nov. 1, Karle said, with the intention of implementing any change before the 2002-2003 winter season.

She said park officials began to favor the snowcoach-only alternative after reviewing thousands of public comments from around the nation and several federal laws, including the Clean Air Act and the law establishing the Park Service as well as presidential executive orders regulating snowmobiles in national parks.

The controversy over snowmobiles centers on the noise and air pollution they bring to the park and their impact on wildlife.

Snowcoaches emit much less pollution than snowmobiles, are quieter and carry up to a dozen passengers, reducing the number of vehicles in the park.

White House, NRA lock in on gun control

WASHINGTON (AP) – The White House Tuesday desrcibed a National Rifle Association leader's accusation that President Clinton is "willing to accept a certain level of killing to further his political agenda, " as sad and shameful.

"I'd have to agree with The New York Times this morning, that called it desperate rhetoric," White House spokesman Joe Lockhart said on NBC's "Today." "I think it is sad but it's also shameful. The NRA desperately doesn't want to have the real debate we should be having in this country about whether we can keep our kids safer."

Wayne LaPierre, the NRA executive vice president, who made the accusation, did not back away from the words in an NBC interview.

But he twice refused to repeat them. "I think the fact is the president would rather make NRA rhetoric the issue rather than his own policies," LaPierre said.

"The truth is, of the 500,000 cases the president brags about where they stopped felons trying to buy guns under the instant check, which NRA supports, he's prosecuted only a handful."

Lockhart responded that enforcement is up 16 percent during Clinton's presidency, and "on all levels, state, local, where most of the enforcements happen, it's up 25 percent."

"Crime is down. We've put more cops on the street. We've tried to take guns off the street. The NRA has stood in our way at every step," Lockhart said.

Later, the president's spokesman criticized Texas Gov. George W. Bush for declining Monday to denounce LaPierre's remarks, saying the likely Republican presidential nominee should have considered it part of his duty as a political leader to speak out against "outrageous statements."

"The way I saw it was the governor saying that both sides should stop calling each other names," Lockhart said.

"That, certainly, I didn't see as a repudiation. This gentleman has made a statement and it's gone unchallenged, as far as I can tell, by the governor and others."

LaPierre said in a televised interview Sunday that "President Clinton is willing to accept a certain level of killing to further his political agenda, and his vice president, too."

"It's pretty hard to take," Clinton told a Democratic crowd during a political fund-raising speech Monday night in Chicago.

President Bill Clinton battles NRA over guns.

Republicans back away on tax proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) – House Republicans are backing away from proposals to suspend a 4.3-cents-a-gallon gas tax to help ease spiraling prices at the pump. Although the GOP labels it the "Gore tax" because of the vice president's tie-breaking vote in 1993, opposition to a suspension from key Republicans, road builders and even truckers is sinking the idea. "Let's not get bogged down on only one dimension of the problem – a short-term dimension that offers scant relief," House Majority Leader Dick Armey, R-Texas, told reporters Tuesday.

There's a political attraction to lifting the tax while consumers fume about gas prices approaching $2 a gallon. And many Republicans have been eager to criticize Vice President Al Gore, whose 1993 vote broke a Senate tie and passed a budget that included a raise in the federal gas tax to 18.4 cents per gallon.

But transportation projects are favorites on Capitol Hill, and some estimates conclude that temporarily suspending the tax would cost states $7 billion a year for roads, bridges and mass transportation.

Administration says GOP budget is 'wrong approach for America

WASHINGTON (AP) – The White House accused congressional Republicans of readying a $1.8 trillion budget for next year that is "the wrong approach for America" because its tax cuts would force 10 percent reductions in many domestic programs.

Republicans retorted Tuesday that the administration was overstating the cuts and insisted it is President Clinton's budget that is dangerous because it lays out too much spending.

"We're not going to mortgage our future on a lame-duck agenda," House Budget Committee spokesman Terry Holt said.

The back and forth came a day before the House budget panel is scheduled to vote on a proposed GOP-written spending plan for fiscal 2001, which begins Oct. 1.

The blueprint would allow at least $150 billion in tax cuts from 2001 through 2005, plus spending boosts for defense, schools, biomedical research, veterans health care and other programs.

"It will continue to hold to our priorities" of bolstering Social Security, cutting taxes and reducing the national debt, said House Majority Leader Dick Armey, R-Texas.

The Senate Budget Committee plans to vote on a similar plan next week. Congress' budget, which maps tax and spending changes to be made in later bills, does not need the president's signature.

Hoping to frame the debate before the first votes are cast, White House chief of staff John Podesta sent a letter to House Budget Committee Chairman John Kasich, R-Ohio, complaining that GOP plans for "irresponsible tax cuts" would result in slashing health care, environment, law enforcement and other programs.

"Let me be clear – the budget you have outlined is the wrong approach for America," Podesta wrote.

White House budget chief Jack Lew and economic adviser Gene Sperling told reporters that compared to this year's spending totals, domestic programs that Republicans are not protecting – ranging from FBI agents to Superfund toxic waste cleanups – would face 10 percent reductions under the GOP plan.

"If you're shrinking the pot, what are you not going to do," Lew said. "You can't say you're going to do all of it, because it just doesn't fit."

Republicans say the White House calculations are out of line because they ignore that billions in this year's budget for one-time events like the 2000 census can be used for other programs, lessening the impact of the cuts.

Republicans want to spend $307 billion for defense next year, about $1 billion more than Clinton. For domestic programs such as housing aid for the poor and air traffic control, the GOP would spend $290 billion, close to $30 billion less than Clinton wants.

Cohen urges Vietnam and Asian neighbors to use leverage

HANOI, Vietnam – Defense Secretary William Cohen Tuesday urged communist Vietnam and its Southeast Asian neighbors to use their collective "leverage" with the region's future powerhouse, China.

In remarks at the National Defense Academy, the military's senior officer institute, Cohen noted the potential of Vietnam and its partners in the Association of Southeast Asian Nations, or ASEAN.

"One of the very important and beneficial aspects of ASEAN is that you have collective interests, and those collective interests can in fact, if you act in concert, give considerable leverage in dealing with China in the future on a peaceful and cooperative basis," Cohen said. China's view of U.S. relations with Vietnam is one of the subtle backdrops to Cohen's historic visit to Hanoi. He is the first American defense secretary ever to visit the Vietnamese capital and the first to enter the country since Melvin Laird visited Saigon, in the former South Vietnam, in 1971.

Tax

to Idaho's two-tiered truck tax should be paid from general tax revenue. He warned that trying to cover that bill with money from the highway fund could be illegal, would reduce revenue earmarked for local government road work and possibly deny the state the match it needs to secure federal highway money for major projects.

Calling it the wrong way to go if the state wants to keep its economy expanding, Kempthorne said he will not "leave any federal money on the table because Idaho couldn't come up with the match."

But as he has since taking office, the governor declined to "draw a line in the sand" with a veto threat if his positions are not adopted.

"I know there's got to be give and take," he said after the midday address to his Rural Development Task Force. "But they know where I am."

Legislative leaders seemed to welcome the public declaration from Kempthorne, who has been criticized both privately and publicly for seeming to have stood on the sidelines during the last two months of sometimes fiery budget debate.

They knew the positions from private discussions with the governor. But several pointed out that his fiscal plan is no more in balance than the one that includes the full House-passed tax cut. Both require $15 million to come out of school aid or the tax break.

"The math doesn't add," House Speaker Bruce Newcomb said.

The only way Kempthorne's plan will balance is if his bonding approach to helping school districts deal with deteriorated buildings is adopted, and it has already been discarded by the House with little chance of being revived.

But the current legislative plan is in even worse shape if the truck tax settlement is paid with general tax receipts. That would eliminate the personal income tax break and leave school aid $15 million short of Kempthorne's mark.

As the governor was weighing in, the leaders continued their own deliberations on the knot of issues. They agreed to move ahead with the truck tax settlement that includes replacing the ton-mile tax with a flat, but comparatively high, annual registration fee that instate truckers have objected too.

But they left up in the air whether the $27 million damage payment will come from general tax receipts or highway funds.

In taking the position many in the Senate have staked out, the governor said he decided to support the rest of the House tax bill because of the additional revenue that has been generated since he developed his original spending blueprint for the year that begins July 1.

Clone

"The birth of these pigs is a very significant accomplishment," Dave Ayares, PPL's vice president of research, said at a news conference Tuesday. "It has the potential to essentially revolutionize the transplantation field."

The five female pigs were cloned from an adult sow named Destiny using a slightly different technique than the one that produced Dolly.

Independent tests of the DNA of the piglets confirmed they were clones of the sow, the company said.

The identical baby pigs playfully wrestled and nibbled on each other's ears inside a wooden pen at the news conference. Their mother was not present.

PPL touted the clones as a major step toward achieving its xenograft objectives, which would create genetically altered pigs whose organs and cells could be successfully transplanted in humans. Pigs are physiologically one of the closest animals to humans.

[illegible]utran, a Cambridge, England-based company pursuing similar research, called PPL's announcement "interesting news."

"It is potentially a useful technology to develop new lines of pigs for (transplant)," the company said. "However, the next step is to see if the technology can be applied to developing genetically modified animals whose organs can be transplanted into humans without being rejected."

The idea of using animal organs for transplant, known as xenotransplantation, is controversial because some believe illnesses could cross from pigs to humans.

PPL scientists plan to try to eliminate a gene responsible for incorporating in pig cells a sugar group recognized by the human immune system as foreign. The gene triggers an immune response in the human body, prompting it to reject the organ.

PPL said transplantation of genetically altered pig organs could be tested on humans in four years and that analysts believe the market for them could be worth $6 billion for solid organs alone. Other uses include cellular therapies such as transplantable cells that produce insulin for treatment of diabetes.

"We hope in the very near-term to overcome the shortage of human organs," said Ayares, who noted ultrasounds performed Tuesday confirmed additional pig cloning pregnancies at the company's farm in Blacksburg.

The only connection the births have to the veterinary school at Virginia Tech is that the university provided the clinical services for the delivery. All of the research was conducted and funded by PPL.

Jury finds four guilty in drug death of teen

DETROIT – Three young men were convicted of involuntary manslaughter Tuesday in the date-rape drug death of a 15-year-old girl. A fourth was convicted of a lesser charge. In one of the nation's first trials involving a death linked to the date-rape drug GHB, jurors also found Joshua Cole, 19, Daniel Brayman, 18, and Nicholas Holtschlag, 18, guilty of lesser poisoning charges.

Erick Limmer, 26, was found guilty of one count each of being an accessory to manslaughter, poisoning, delivery of marijuana and possession of GHB, or gamma-hydroxybutyrate. Earlier this month, the judge threw out a manslaughter count against Limmer. Prosecutors alleged the men gave Samantha Reid a soft drink secretly spiked with GHB during a Jan. 16, 1999, party at Limmer's Grosse Ile apartment. She died the next day.

Nation in brief

State judge throws out Florida's voucher law

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) – A state judge Tuesday ruled that Florida's school voucher law is unconstitutional, throwing out the nation's first statewide program to help children in failing public schools to attend private schools.

Fifty-three children attending private schools in Pensacola can finish the school year, Circuit Judge L. Ralph Smith Jr. ruled. But the state can take no other action to implement the law, Smith said. The program, championed by Gov. Jeb Bush, allows students in Florida's worst public schools to receive vouchers of up to $3,389 a year to pay for a private or parochial school education at taxpayer expense.

Challenging the program was a coalition that included a teacher's union, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Florida PTA, the League of Women Voters and a handful of families and educators.

Debate team member killed in Rice University van crash

The Rice Forensics Team was returning from a debate and public speaking competition at Omaha, Neb., when the crash happened just before 11 p.m. Monday.

Eleven students and three coaches were in two university vans that encountered a construction zone on Interstate 45, about 30 miles north of Houston.

Kennedy nephew, Skakel, says 'I'm the wrong guy'

STAMFORD, Conn. – Kennedy nephew Michael Skakel was arraigned today on a nearly 25-year-old murder charge, then approached the victim's mother and told her: "You've got the wrong guy."

Skakel, now 39, was arraigned as a juvenile in the October 1975 murder of Martha Moxley in the wealthy suburb of Greenwich. Both Skakel and Moxley were 15 at the time of the slaying. In a simple, four-minute court appearance, Skakel heard the charge against him read aloud and was advised of his rights. Skakel, nephew of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, was arraigned as a juvenile because of his age at the time Martha died.

Buhl thespians take to the stage

By Dare Jensen
Times-News correspondent

BUHL – Induction into the International Thespian Society may not be winning an Oscar, but for high school students, it may be the next best thing.

Seven Buhl High School drama students will join 11 other students who received their charter grant in October and were inducted into the International Thespian Society.

The new inductees are Ingrid Bailey, Jill Hosman, Sarah Jarolimek, Christina Jaynes, Jamie Larson, Erica Littlefield and Randi Neumeyer. They joined members Bonnie Berks, Jana Davidson, Lisa Eklund, Sonya Flint, Sam Garza, Tristan Griffin, Kurt Harvey, Patty Hendrix, A.J. Hoffman, Misty Pietersma and Max Quinton in an induction ceremony held during the talent show at Buhl Middle School Jan. 28.

"Induction into the International Thespian Society is a very solemn and honored event and should carry the same prestige as induction to the National Honor Society," says David Blaskiewicz, Buhl drama teacher.

Inductees must be involved in two plays and complete 100 hours of work in theater production to qualify for membership.

"I'm honored to be invited," student Ingrid Bailey says.

Other students mentioned opportunities for scholarships as another benefit to the induction.

"Drama lets you work with people you like and when you're in a drama group, you're accepted. Drama gives us an alternative to sports," another student, Jana Davidson, says.

"It is a major accomplishment for our group and school," Erica Littlefield says.

"The society recognizes the hard work that goes into a drama production," Bonnie Berks adds.

Idaho Department of Parks and Recreation has jobs

BOISE – The Idaho Department of Parks and Recreation is taking applications for seasonal jobs with employment from the end of May to early September.

Area parks include Malad Gorge State Park near Tuttle, and Niagra Springs, part of the Thousand Springs complex on Highway 30 between Buhl and Hagerman. Most jobs involve outdoor work and start at $7 per hour.

Pay is based on the applicant's level of experience, the department says.

Starting dates vary from park to park, and job applicants may apply directly to the park where they wish to work.

Applications can be obtained from the Idaho Department of Parks and Recreation web site or write Idaho Department of Parks and Recreation at P.O. Box 83720, Boise, ID 83720-0065.

Key philosophical differences separate Eismann and Silak

Pssst. Want to know a secret?

One of the two judges running for the Idaho Supreme Court is conservative and the other is liberal.

Of course, neither incumbent Cathy Silak nor challenger Dan Eismann would tell you that. Oh no. Judicial elections are supposed to be strictly non-partisan. Judges are supposed to be above the fray of ideology. That's the official line.

The truth of the matter is that Eismann is more conservative – a lot more conservative – than Silak. That's something voters should know, especially in a conservative state such as Idaho.

> When choosing between candidates for the Idaho Supreme Court, it's worth remembering that the past is a good predictor of the future.

Eismann's record as a 4th District judge is one of a strict constructionist who avoids reading more into a law than its authors intended. That's why he rejected the state schools lawsuit, which seeks to get the state involved in local school construction. (Silak and other Supreme Court justices overturned Eismann's dismissal, and the suit is proceeding in another judge's court. Still, Eismann made it clear where he stands on the issue.)

Meanwhile, Silak's record is speckled with liberal judicial activism. She wrote the high court's majority opinion in a 3-2 decision that gave Uncle Sam water rights in three Idaho wilderness areas. Congress never asked for those water rights, but that didn't stop Silak. In the court's decision, she said Congress implied the federal government should have control of the water.

Before that, Silak had a hand in the Supreme Court's employer liability decision. It holds employers responsible for the actions of off-duty and former employees. That's an enormous responsibility, especially for owners of businesses with high employee turnover. Many business owners say it's beyond the realm of the reasonable.

Another insight into the philosophical differences between Silak and Eismann is their obvious partisan ties. Silak was active in Boise Democratic circles when Idaho's No. 1 Democrat, Gov. Cecil Andrus, appointed her to the Idaho Court of Appeals. Then Andrus promoted her to the Idaho Supreme Court.

Eismann hasn't had those advantages, but it's worth noting that he moves easily in Republican circles. Heck, he got a virtual endorsement from Idaho's best-connected Republican, Sen. Larry Craig, at the recent Lincoln Day Banquet in Twin Falls.

None of these are things that Silak and Eismann will trumpet on the campaign trail. But all of them are important, because the past is a good predictor of the future.

Meanwhile, Silak has been decrying partisanship in court races when speaking to civic clubs and television reporters. For his part, Eismann is seeking support from Republicans while avoiding directly partisan activities.

This Supreme Court race is shaping up as a classic one between a liberal incumbent and a conservative challenger. Voters would be wise to remember that key distinction.

What kind of people are we?

Inexorably tied to the issues of salmon extinction and livestock concentration camps is the question of what kind of a people are we? Can we justify the extinction of another life form, foul air, land and water, practice animal exploitation and poor neighborliness in pursuit of a grossly wasteful and consumptive lifestyle? I think not.

We human beings can do far better than that. I, for one, am tired of fighting. I'd much rather spend my time solving problems rather than standing in the way of one more greed-driven project or proposal. We all live together in this place on this planet. It only makes sense to treat each other, the other life forms we share this place with – and the air, land and water which sustains us – with respect.

Things are seriously out of balance. Einstein said, "We cannot solve our problems at the same level of thinking at which we created them." We cannot just think of ourselves and our personal enrichment. We must think of future generations, consider the well-being of our neighbors, the quality of the air, land and water which sustains all life forms.

There are bad laws on the books in Twin Falls, Gooding and Jerome counties regarding livestock concentration camps. They were made to appease industrial ag rather than to protect the public health, safety and welfare. At 10 a.m. on March 22 in the Twin Falls County Courthouse, we will be asking the commissioners once again to enact a moratorium on all new and expanding confined animal feeding operations until we can get reasonable regulations on the books. It doesn't have to take long to sort this out; it just takes a commitment to do it right.

Chapman relies on deception

Sherl Chapman of the Idaho Water Users Association continues his practice of deception in his guest opinion on Snake River salmon.

Taking an added 1 million acre-feet of southern Idaho water is being considered by the National Marine Fisheries Service as an alternative to breaching the four Lower Snake River dams. This is Alternative C in the "All-H" paper which is one of two documents being addressed in the current round of public hearings.

Sherl always says that none of the alternatives being considered does not involve using Idaho water for flow augmentation. If he wanted to tell southern Idaho irrigators the whole truth, he would say that taking 1 million additional acre-feet of water is being considered as an alternative to breaching the dams.

If NMFS doesn't recommend breaching, it will have little to offer in trying to convince a federal judge that there are alternatives that will help the salmon, except more southern Idaho water. By joining in this campaign of deception, Chapman does a real disservice to southern Idaho water users.

Clean up area law enforcement

You read how Gene Turley grabs a 17-year-old, puts his face to the pavement, slaps him around, just because this kid is skateboarding in a mall. Well, it's like our policemen – they arrest you, then handcuff you and knock you around. It's OK because all these people wear the badge that says, "I am the law. You will do as I say," even if they are in the wrong. Now let a parent slap their own child around and the state is on them like wildfire and they take your child away because of abuse. Then you get a bill from the state, you have to pay for foster care. But if you are some kind of law enforcement, you can do as you please and walk away free.

It's time to clean up our law enforcement in Magic Valley and get real people in there who don't let wearing a badge or gun go to their head. Have it where they treat all people like humans and not some point system. They used to take a drunk home; now they arrest them to get the almighty points and would you like having your child riding skateboards in a mall or out somewhere getting high or drinking and get in a car and drive somewhere?

Kids can't be kids no more because of the law. No dragging Main, no skateboarding, no riding horses in town. No riding bikes wherever because of this or that. Well, what is a kid to do nowadays? Has everyone forgot that at one time or another they were kids, and kids need to play and grow and have fun? Yes, they need to behave to a point. But what's some of the tricks you pulled growing up? Policemen and law enforcement need to help them, not beat them up or throw them in jail. Show them you care.

Give them some of their freedom back. Don't say you didn't drag Main or pull tricks. Everyone has. Give kids something to do. Give them a place to ride whatever they choose. You did.

Stage will benefit us all

I would like to thank John T. Huddy for the coverage of Johnny Meyers in the article that appeared on the front page of the March 6 issue of The Times-News.

What a nice beginning to the day in a troubled world! As I read the story, I realized that the stage had quite possibly delivered mail to my grandfather and grandmother at Wendell. Mr. and Mrs. Dwane Lucas moved to Wendell from Grand Junction, Colo., in 1910. They homesteaded 40 acres 1 1/2 miles southwest of Wendell.

What a remarkable achievement! Mr. Meyers donated his time, dedication and money to restore this stage for all of us and generations to come to enjoy.

Take these steps for a new school

To the Jerome School Board:

After reading the editorial in The Times-News, I came to realize that you folks still do not understand why you lost the bond vote. Do you read the paper? Well, if someone has to draw you a picture, OK!

First of all, the voters didn't vote against a new school. They voted against higher taxes, your mismanagement of the money you get, and half-truths and downright, out-and-out lies you tell us. So, this is what you must do to get a new school! You must get the College of Southern Idaho dollars to stay at home; you have former Gov. John Evans, Chamber of Commerce President Con Paulos, Mayor Dennis Moore, City Councilman Jerry Crozier, Rep. Maxine Bell and others to put pressure in the right places to get the job done, and if not, hold an election and get CSI voted out. The voters give it and the voters can take it away, isn't that right!

The last time I checked, it was still we, the people. I believe that had you been as persistent on this issue, you would have had your school long ago. Next, get straight with us people, not more half-truths and lies. Manage your money well, sell the game farm land and the land on North Lincoln. Start a good maintenance plan for the buildings you have. Let's use the Washington School, put your offices in it or put some classes there. There is nothing wrong with that building that can't be fixed.

The last thing is to communicate with us. I, for one, have never heard a word about you trying to get CSI funding stopped. If you did, you were very quiet about it; one of your best kept secrets that should have been on the front page of every paper in the country! Is there something wrong with the School Board trying to keep taxes lower for us?

Anyway, that's what you are going to have to do to get my vote. Now it's your move. Let's see how you do with the powers that be to get our taxes down: stop the CSI funding, see that the funding to the recreation district is limited (this is another area where there is too much money being spent).

Jerome City Council, you're next. You have some of the same problems. We are trying to tell you something if you will only hear us. Get in touch!

Questions about local control

Your editorials champion local control in education. Exactly what does that mean?

Can districts determine locally that they will deviate from the state-mandated testing programs? No!

Can they meet the needs of students with disabilities in a manner that they choose? No!

Can they determine an appropriate size, shape and configuration for their school buildings? No!

Can they determine how long students attend school? No!

So what exactly are you talking about when you support local control?

Your response to the recent bond election failure in Jerome suggests one possibility. Local control means that 34 people out of 100 can determine whether or not students are taught in adequate facilities. Mean-spirited and tight-fisted people can dictate the quality of education in rural communities throughout our state. And that's OK with you.

I have been an educator for close to 30 years. I am also the parent of two children who have attended school in Wendell, one currently a senior receiving three days of education a week. And I am tired of watching teachers and administrators bear the brunt of the criticism when our education system fails the test of adequacy.

If you write editorials that accuse the taxpayers of Wendell of failing to build a new middle school when they have never been asked to; if you blame the administration of Jerome School District for the consistent failure of bond elections; if you support a system that allows a minority vote to dictate the quality of educational facilities in the state; if you fail to support the education system when it disciplines your child; if you send your child to school hungry; if you are part of a chaotic home environment that creates emotional distress and instability in your child; if you fail to read to your child; if you fail to make sure your student has a place and time to complete his homework; if you fail to support the teachers and administrators in your own community; if you believe that the school you attended 30 years ago is good enough for today's students; if you do any of these things, then you – not the teachers, principals, or administration – are responsible for the failure of the public school system.

Where do rights stop?

Thank you, Twin Falls City Council, for not tackling the smoking issues! I am a proud American and a lifetime non-smoker. Thank you for not taking away one more of our rights as citizens of the beautiful United States of America.

If smoking offends someone and they get it stopped, what is next? What happens the next time I wear purple and someone is offended? Does that mean it goes to the City Council next week or the week after that? Then where does it go from there, my hair is too long or too short? Thank God we live in America and have a right to choose what we do. I am sorry that this lady has not taught her son how to say no. If he is that weak for cigarettes, keep him locked up, it may be alcohol or marijuana next.

Teach your son to say no!

Laws must be for everyone

I would love for someone to please correct me if I am wrong. I have read almost all the letters to the editor in The Times-News on Jesse Thrush and how he killed an innocent child. Why would our justice system give him such a light sentence for killing a child he chose to take into his care for the mother at his own will? Knowing that he had had a long and stressful day at work, he still made the choice to care for the child.

He should have gotten the maximum sentence for his heinous act. I cannot believe what a joke the system in the United States has become! When are we, the people, going to stand up to our government (our employees) and tell them that enough is enough. Why are these people that commit such horrible crimes getting a slap on the hand?

A pregnant mother of four lost control just as Jesse Thrush did, and she received nine years for killing her daughter – a daughter that she wanted to give up for adoption because she knew that she couldn't take care of her anymore. She had a family for the little angel and was willing to sign the adoption papers, but just because the biological father wouldn't sign the papers, the little girl was placed back with the mother – a mother who may have had a long and stressful day just as Jesse had. If the father didn't want to sign up his rights for Isabel, then why didn't he take Isabel to care for?

I feel that the state of Idaho is just as much to blame for this little girl's death for allowing the child to be placed back in the mother's care when they knew that she couldn't care for her.

It is so sad to see that our law enforcement doesn't seem to have the same laws as we, the citizens, have. My prayers go out to the victims of these families. I hope that someday our laws will be the same for everyone and not just who our judges feel they fit.

Smells, smells everywhere

The other day, a friend asked me why I just complained about the cow stinks and not about the sugar factory smell? Twice this winter when there was an east wind, I could smell the sugar factory. I can't say I like the smell, but it doesn't injure me. The smell comes from a plant, not the feces of a mammal. The wind has to be just right before I get these stinks. Most of the time, I have fresh, pure air to breathe. That way, my nasal passages are not corroded and desensitized to the smell. Sometimes when there is a northeast wind, I get a "cow" smell. My eyes water and I get a headache. When a northwest wind blows in that gagging, germ-ridden, rotten smell, it hits my lungs and I can't breathe; it triggers an asthma attack, my lungs hurt for days. That is dangerous! It injures my health.

Now, they are planning another dairy on 3700 North. That is northwest of me. What can we do? No one seems to care. Are the people who have to live around these stinks all the time too sick to cry out?

Gene Turley helps others

Amazing how your newspaper embellishes and twists partial facts and calls this fiction "news." No one needs wonder about your suitability to run a paper. You make it glaringly obvious that you're not!

You've no idea what Gene does or has done for the coroner's office – starting youth programs, teaching about the dangers of smokeless tobacco and the consequences of unsafe driving, going to schools, speaking in driver's education classes and working with traffic offenders through the court system. This ended when his position was cut to part time – with your endorsement.

The times he sat with an elderly person who lost their loved one of 60 years – holding their hand, guiding them through a difficult time; comforting a young family that lost their baby; spending hours investigating an apparent suicide of a teen-ager concluding it was a horrible accident, saving the family undue grief; coming home after a traffic fatality involving young people to hold his children and tell them he loves them. Gene gives his heart and soul to help these people to make this tragic time bearable for them. His first concern is to comfort and support them, which is something your paper knows nothing of.

You better pray a competitor newspaper never comes to Twin, because it would be easy to produce a better paper than yours.

Investigator describes Srebrenica massacre

THE HAGUE, Netherlands – Detailing an inquiry into Europe's bloodiest massacre since the Holocaust, a witness in the trial of a Bosnian Serb general on Tuesday told how Muslims were packed into a warehouse and slaughtered with machine guns and hand grenades.

As Gen. Radislav Krstic's genocide trial entered a second day, French investigator Jean-Rene Ruez described the Serb operation in the U.N.-declared "safe haven" of Srebrenica, Bosnia, and the horrific suffering it caused.

"The Serbs tried to make them believe it was combat," Ruez told the three-member panel of U.N. judges. "People tried to jump out of the windows when the execution started," he added. "Hand grenades were thrown inside and machine guns were fired through the windows."

The massacre at Srebrenica has come to symbolize the terrifying tragedy of the 1992-1995 Bosnian war. In the genocide case against Krstic – the highest-ranking Bosnian Serb military officer to go before the tribunal – prosecutors must prove that he led a scheme intended to wipe out an ethnic or religious group, in whole or in part.

Bosnian Serb charged in mass murder

THE TRIAL

GEN. RADISLAV KRSTIC
Commander of the Drina Corps of the Bosnian Serb army
INDICTMENT Led the massacres of Muslim men and boys of Srebrenica and "ethnic cleansing" of the U.N.-declared safe haven in July 1995. The remains of close to 2,500 people have been found, and at least 4,500 remain missing.
CHARGES Genocide, crimes against humanity, violations of the laws or customs of war.
CAPTURED Dec. 2, 1998, by NATO troops.
STATUS Trial begins March 13.
IF CONVICTED Faces life imprisonment in a European jail.

Iranian council urges city to pray for reformer

TEHRAN, Iran – Tehran's city council urged Iranians Tuesday to pray for a reformer gravely wounded in an assassination attempt, an appeal that in this country usually indicates little hope for recovery and imminent death.

Saeed Hajjarian, who is in his late 40s, has been in a coma with a bullet lodged in the back of his neck since Sunday, when he was shot in the face by an unknown assailant. Doctors have said that Hajjarian, a council member and the architect of President Mohammad Khatami's reform movement, has suffered severe brain damage.

Hajjarian angered powerful hard-liners by making what they considered to be provocative statements during last month's parliamentary elections, which the hard-liners lost for the first time since the 1979 Islamic revolution brought the Shiite Muslim clergy to power.

Cholera epidemic spreads in flooded Madagascar

ANTANANARIVO, Madagascar – Nearly 500 new cases of cholera have been reported in recent days as floods washed over sections of this Indian Ocean island, worsening a year-long epidemic of the disease, officials said Tuesday.

The new cases reported in the past three days – including 19 deaths – nearly doubled the previous daily infection rate during the epidemic, which has sickened 23,800 and killed 1,350. Armand Ralaidovy, the government's anti-cholera coordinator, said he suspected more cholera cases were occurring in the flooded northeast portion of this Texas-sized country.

Wendell considers middle school cost

WENDELL – Finding out how much it would cost to demolish Wendell Middle School is shaping up to be the next step for the community as it decides how to address its school building needs.

Larry Manly, superintendent of Wendell School District, said he will ask the School Board today to seek bids for demolition. No decision has been made about whether to demolish the building, but the district needs to know how much it would cost before it decides how to proceed, Manly said. If the cost exceeds the district's budget, and it likely will, then the expense would need to paid either through a plant facilities levy or included in a bond issue if the community decides to build a new school, the superintendent said.

The district abandoned the building in February when the center portion was condemned because of an unstable foundation. Classes are being held at the high school.

In other business at today's meeting, the board is scheduled to hold a closed meeting to discuss principals' evaluations and teacher contract renewals for the 2000-01 school year.

The board will meet at 7 p.m. in the high school library.

JEROME – A 20-year-old man was injured in a one-car rollover Tuesday afternoon.

David Laureano of Twin Falls was injured when he rolled his 2000 Nissan Maxima at about 2:52 p.m. Tuesday, according to an Idaho State Police news release.

According to the ISP, Laureano was eastbound on Interstate 84 at milepost 198 in Jerome County when he lost control of the vehicle, rolling it into the median and coming to rest northbound in the westbound lanes.

Laureano was taken by an air ambulance to Saint Alphonsus Regional Medical Center in Boise. His condition was unknown late Tuesday.

The release did not say if Laureano was wearing a seat belt.

Chisholm to ask for moratorium on CAFOs

TWIN FALLS – The third time is a charm.

At least that's what Buhl resident and activist Bill Chisholm said about his latest moratorium request.

Chisholm said he has scheduled a meeting with Twin Falls County commissioners to make another request for a four-month moratorium on large confined animal feeding operations in Twin Falls County.

This is the third time in six months that Chisholm has requested a moratorium on what he calls "livestock concentration camps."

Commissioners will consider the request at 10 a.m. March 22 at the Twin Falls County Courthouse.

Gooding Republicans will meet at Lincoln Inn

GOODING – Gooding County Republicans will meet tonight to discuss the upcoming party primaries.

The meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. at the Lincoln Inn, 413 Main St., Gooding.

TB hospital land might become Basque center

BOISE – The Idaho Land Board has designated the state's demolished tuberculosis hospital in Gooding as surplus, which could result in a Basque cultural center and convention facility.

The state and Gooding officials had tried without success for decades to find a tenant at the old hospital. It has been demolished and cleaned up.

The Idaho Lands Department staff recommendation was to declare the 4.2 acres surplus and offer it first to state agencies for $63,000.

Gooding Mayor Ervin Dains asked the board to deed it back to the city for use by the Gooding Basque Association to develop a center and hold functions such as weddings or conventions.

School Board approves schedule

By Jennifer Sandmann
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS – Students at Robert Stuart Junior High School can expect longer class periods next school year, and all Twin Falls high school students soon will be required to take biology.

The School Board on Tuesday approved the junior high school's request to convert to block scheduling. Students will split a course load of eight classes into four, 85-minute periods daily, alternating classes every other day. Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School converted to a block schedule at the beginning of this school year.

Craig Ainsworth, principal at Robert Stuart, and members of his staff told the School Board that an informational meeting held for parents went well. One concern that arose involved how students with Attention Deficit Disorder would handle the long classes, Ainsworth said. He said he thinks that can be addressed through instructional techniques.

The school reports that advantages to block scheduling include more time for in-depth instruction and teacher preparation, room to add seventh- and eighth-grade reading classes, and more elective choices for ninth-graders.

"I think our teaching is going to be much more effective," said Kathy Dabestani, a ninth-grade math teacher at Robert Stuart.

The School Board also approved a request by the high school science department to require all students to take biology before they graduate. Students now can take other classes to meet their science requirements, but coming state graduation tests will require students have a background in biology. The class of 2005 will be the first to take the state tests.

Donicht told the School Board to watch for other course changes as the district matches up its requirements with the state tests.

Mary Ann Ranells, district curriculum director, said that for the most part curriculum standards developed by the district match the state's. Elementary science standards are the exception. The state's are much broader than the district's, and the district will need to make adjustments, she said.

In other business:

* The School Board denied a request by the Magic Valley Shrine Council to reduce district rental fees for Bruin Stadium. The council will hold its annual all-star high school football game May 30. In years past, the board has reduced the fee. But the board has been dealing with many requests by charity groups asking the fees be reduced. The Shrine Council will pay the district's standard rate for nonprofit groups of $80 an hour plus $100 for the cost of using stadium lights. The council expects it will use the stadium for about two and a half to three hours.

* Donicht informed the board that the district is commissioning a formal traffic study at I.B. Perrine Elementary School to address traffic congestion problems. Estimated cost of the study is about $3,800 and will be conducted by Riedesel Engineering LLC of Twin Falls.

Kimberly man receives sentence

By John T. Huddy
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS – A 20-year old Kimberly man was sentenced to six months in the Twin Falls County Jail, in connection with an automotive accident that left an elderly Kimberly woman dead.

Nathaniel Hudelson was sentenced Tuesday by District Judge Nathan Higer, who also suspended Hudelson's license for five years and levied more than $1,000 in fines.

Hudelson pleaded guilty in January to misdemeanor vehicular manslaughter in connection with the death of 71-year-old Lucy Pullman.

Pullman was hit while standing near the edge of the road in front of her house at 521 Taylor St. W., Idaho State Police reports said.

After the collision Hudelson drove to the nearby Kimberly police department to find help. No one was there, so he went to a store across the street and called 911, the reports said.

Hudelson testified that he could not see Pullman because of the glare of the sun off his windshield, and said she stepped out in front of his truck.

"I'd like to apologize to the court for being here and to the family that lost a loved one," Hudelson said before sentencing. "Not a day goes by that I don't think about it. I'm really sorry about what happened and I learned my lesson."

Hudelson asked the court to allow him to do work release while in jail. If granted work release, an extra month will be added to his sentence.

Higer said he had to set an example in sentencing Hudelson.

"There are things that happen that are accidents. Then there are things that happened because we set them up to happen," Higer said before sentencing Hudelson. "This wasn't a situation where you didn't have a chance to avoid what happened. No matter how you weigh it, a life has been lost because of your actions."

The maximum penalty for a misdemeanor is a year in jail and a $2,000 fine.

Before sentencing, several family members and friends of Pullman testified about Hudelson's erratic driving.

Planners vote against change

By John T. Huddy
Times-News staff writer

TWIN FALLS – The city Planning and Zoning Commission on Tuesday unanimously voted to recommend the denial of a request to change the zoning of several properties off Addison Avenue from residential professional overlay to commercial.

The commission's recommendation will now go to the City Council.

Several property owners, including Tim and Kate Coiner, Don Rahe, Rockey and Mary Sligar and the law firm of Hutchinson and Lammers, requested the zone change. The properties are located at 105 Buchanan St., 1025 Shoshone St. N., 840 Addison Ave., 104 Lincoln St., 105 Lincoln St. and 156 10th Ave. N.

More than 20 residents voiced their opinions about the zone change at Tuesday's meeting. Some residents said they were concerned about an increase in traffic if more businesses located to their neighborhoods.

"I truly feel that it would cause further traffic hazards," said resident Diana Thomas.

But Mary Sligar, who requested the zone change with her husband, said her intent was to be a good neighbor. Sligar owns a home on 10th Street North and the vacant Haney Building on Addison Avenue. Her plan was to convert the Haney Building, which used to be a real estate agency, and the 10th Avenue North building into commercial businesses.

Cassia sheriff to step down

By Ruth Streeter
Times-News writer

BURLEY – For 15 years, he ran unopposed for Cassia County sheriff.

But this year, Sheriff Billy Crystal will watch the challengers from outside the political ring.

In words that were difficult for him to say, Crystal told The Times-News Tuesday that he will not seek another four-year term as sheriff. Crystal said he made up his mind last week.

Crystal said several personal issues prompted him to step down. But Crystal said he's not ready to give up law enforcement altogether.

"Although I would like to continue to serve in the sheriff's office in some capacity, I'd like to take a step back and let someone else have the reigns for a while," he said.

Just what role Crystal would take could depend on who is elected sheriff.

Crystal's undersheriff Jim Higens, a candidate for sheriff, said he has discussed Crystal's role in the department if Higens is elected. Nothing is certain, however.

"We did not make any deals," Higens said.

The two have looked at several options – from placing Crystal on patrol to making Crystal undersheriff, although the latter looks unlikely at this point, Higens said.

Higens said he isn't sure whether Crystal would want to be undersheriff, and he isn't sure that would be the right decision for the department.

Crystal said he is supporting Higens for sheriff because he believes Higens has the experience and training to manage the department efficiently.

A second candidate has announced his bid for sheriff on the Republican ticket. Cassia County deputy George Warrell Jr. is vying for the position.

Warrell said he has no ill feelings toward Crystal, in light of his endorsement of Higens. Warrell said he's known for some time that Crystal would support Higens.

"I knew he wasn't going to (support me), because when he announced to us that he wasn't going to run, he said he was going to support Jim Higens," Warrell said.

Warrell said he was upfront with Crystal when he told the sheriff he planned to run for his post.

"When I talked to him about it at the time, I felt I needed to be upfront and honest about it," Warrell said. "I felt that was only fair since I worked for the man. He was fine about it."

Higens said he appreciates his boss for the years of service he's put in to the county, for his friendship and candor. Simply put, Crystal has been a great sheriff, Higens said.

"I'm pretty sad. I happen to like him," said Robin Green, Crystal's secretary. "He's a wonderful sheriff and a good person to work for. He's a very good man."

Blaine County looks to get paramedics

By Karen Bossick
Twin Falls correspondent

HAILEY – Blaine County should be getting paramedics by the end of the year. Blaine County commissioners have given the Sawtooth Region Emergency Medical Services Council the go-ahead to train four paramedics beginning in April. Four additional people would be trained as paramedics next year.

The training by the Ada County Paramedics in Boise will cost about $410,000, including overtime pay for people who cover for those receiving paramedic training.

Dr. Keith Silverton, director of emergency services for St. Luke's Hospital, said having fully-trained paramedics in place will greatly improve medical care in the Wood River Valley because paramedics can diagnose complicated health problems and administer drugs and other treatments en route to the hospital that less trained personnel cannot.'

Currently, Wood River Valley has EMT-As, who perform far below the level of paramedics, said Jon Moses, chief executive officer of St. Luke's Hospital.

The Wood River Valley is a relatively low call environment, said Mike Williams, a consultant for St. Luke's Hospital. Of about 1,000 calls in 1999, 878 needed ambulance transport. Of those, 223 were routine transfers, such as moving patients to Boise hospitals. Cases that could have benefited from paramedic skills included 26 patients with cardiac symptoms, 14 experiencing cardiac arrest, 12 diabetic comas and 12 people who lapsed into unconsciousness following seizures, according to Williams.

Wood River Valley resident Vicki Bates believes her son might have lived six months ago

Buhl could get ambulance station

By Mary Lou Potts
Times-News correspondent

BUHL – An ambulance station could be on its way to Buhl.

Based on annual call volume and population, Magic Valley Regional Medical Center's paramedic service is considering locating ambulance stations around the valley to shorten response time. Buhl could be one site.

Gilbert Schmidt of the paramedic service outlined the proposed changes to the Buhl City Council Monday.

Magic Valley Regional is consolidating paramedic service with Jerome County. It's also looking at locating other stations around the valley.

Using annual call data by area, and population distribution, the service is looking to improve the emergency medical service system with more ambulances, more people and equipment.

The proposal would place a second station in Twin Falls covering the east and west ends while another would be near the Hansen Bridge to cover Eden and Hazelton areas. These two additions are scheduled for April 15.

On July 15, a Buhl station would cover Buhl, Castleford and Filer.

The proposal would shorten response times and provide a better backup to other ambulances.

A full-time crew of at least one paramedic and one EMT would be available.

In other business:

- The council agreed to support a proposal for a recreation district, and will support a petition drive to place the issue on the May ballot.
- The council passed a resolution to apply for a $375,000 grant from the Idaho Transportation Department for the downtown revitalization project. The money would be available in 2003.
- Mayor Barbara Gietzen proclaimed April 28 as Arbor Day. A celebration will take place at Eastman Park after schools are dismissed; students are a big part of the program.

Burial will be in the Paul Cemetery. Friends may call at the Payne Mortuary, 221 W. Main St. in Burley from 6 to 8 p.m. Friday, and at the church one hour prior to the funeral on Saturday.

TWIN FALLS

Doris Earla Maurer Baysinger

Doris Baysinger, 86, went to be with her Lord on March 11, 2000, from her home in Twin Falls, surrounded by her family.

Doris was born on July 28, 1913, in Twin Falls, Idaho, the daughter of Earl and Rosina Hawkins Maurer. She attended schools in Orchard Valley and Wendell, graduating from Wendell High School. Doris married Harry Baysinger May 16, 1934. She worked as a school cafeteria cook for several years and was employed by Mountain Bell for 26 years as a telephone operator. Mrs. Baysinger was a loving mother, grandmother and friend. She was devoted to serving God and others, touching the lives of many. She was a faithful member of the First Christian Church in Gooding and Twin Falls, serving in CWMS, on the church Missions Committee, and as Sunday School Teacher until her death.

Mrs. Baysinger is survived by two daughters, Ruth (Kenneth) Steele of Fortuna, Calif., and Carolyn (Jim) Grissom of Boise; one brother, Leonard (Marilyn) Maurer of Davis, Calif.; three sisters, Gladys Bean of Twin Falls, Marguerite (Jim) Churchill of Snowhomish, Wash., and Dorothy (Hugh) Nelson of Boise. She is also survived by nine grandchildren; 14 great-grandchildren; and many nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Harry; one brother and one sister.

Graveside services will be held at noon Friday, March 17, 2000, at the Elmwood Cemetery in Gooding, Idaho. A Memorial Celebration will be held at 3 p.m. on Friday, March 17, 2000, at the First Christian Church in Twin Falls, with Minister Dave Drullinger officiating.

In lieu of flowers, the family suggests memorials be given to the Jamaica Christian Mission or Campus Crusade for Christ. Contributions may be given to funeral chapel staff or mailed to Reynolds Funeral Chapel, P.O. Box 1142, Twin Falls, ID 83303.

TWIN FALLS

Arthur G. Bourner

Arthur Gordon Bourner, 73, of Twin Falls, passed away Tuesday, March 14, 2000, at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center, of an extended illness.

He was born June 23, 1926, in Spokane, Washington, the son of Charles and Maude Teeter Bourner. He was raised in Boise, graduated from Boise High School and attended Boise Junior College. He served in the U.S. Navy and in the Idaho National Guard. Gordon retired, having worked for Mountain Bell for 34 years, most of which was in Management. He was a member of the Telephone Pioneers of America. He also served as an Income Tax preparation volunteer for the AARP, and as a "basic skills" tutor for the College of Southern Idaho. He married Catherine M. Rollheiser on May 31, 1953, in Rupert, Idaho. They raised a family of five children.

Gordon is survived by his wife, Catherine; sons, Patrick (Anita) Bourner of Twin Falls, Jeffery (Teresa) Bourner of Kimberly, and Vincent Bourner of Boise; daughters, Germaine (Kerry) Wentworth and Julie Black, all of Twin Falls; grandchildren, Jennifer and Jamison Wentworth of Twin Falls, Kyle and Justin Bourner of Kimberly, and Katey and Andrew Kovar of Twin Falls; brothers, Thomas (Marilyn) Bourner of Boise, and Darrel (Mary Anne) Bourner of Twin Falls; a sister, Loraine Russell of Gig Harbor, Washington; and numerous nieces and nephews.

Gordon was preceded in death by his parents, and one sister.

A Rosary will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday, March 16, 2000, at the Guadalupe Catholic Church in Twin Falls. Mass will take place at 11 a.m. Friday, March 17, 2000, at the Guadalupe Catholic Church with Father Ernie Anderson and Father Tom Loucks as concelebrants.

The family suggests memorials be given to the American Lung Association, 1111 S. Orchard St., Suite 245, Boise, ID 83705. Services are under the direction of White Mortuary in Twin Falls.

WENDELL

Robert Melvin 'Mel' Snow

Robert Melvin "Mel" Snow, 88, a resident of Wendell, died Monday, March 13, 2000, at the Twin Falls Clinic and Hospital.

Robert was born on November 22, 1911, in Ucon, Idaho, the son of John Thomas and Rilla Marshburn Snow. He was raised and educated in Ucon, and worked as a farm worker and builder during his early adult years. Robert married Maxine Luella Howard on July 1, 1939, in Jerome. He served his country during WW II with the U.S. Army. Robert fought in five major battles, including Guam, the Philippines and Okinawa. After he was discharged from the service, they made their home in Seattle, Washington, where he worked in building construction. In 1965, they moved to Wendell, where he continued working in the building trade. Robert was a member of the LDS Church.

Robert is survived by his wife, Maxine Snow of Wendell; one son, Melvin Dale Snow of Wendell; one brother, Raymond (Roslyn) Snow of Boise; two sisters, Reva Crouse of Caldwell, and Dorothy (Robert) Simerly of Wendell; and numerous nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents; three brothers, Ren, Lynn and Joseph; and two sisters, Edith and Myrtia.

Graveside funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday, March 16, 2000, at the Wendell Cemetery. Family members and friends may sign the register book from 1 to 7 p.m. today at Demaray's Wendell Chapel.

Hailey talks city comprehensive plan

By Karen Bossick
Times-News correspondent

HAILEY – Not to be outdone by Ketchum, its neighbor to the north, the city of Hailey began grappling with its own comprehensive plan Monday night.

On the agenda: economic development, including a look at the light industrial district.

Marc McGregor, who represents Citizens for Smart Growth, asked the council to protect the ridgeline and other aesthetic qualities that attracted people to the Wood River Valley as the town formulates guidelines governing new businesses.

When they meet

The Hailey City Council will hold its next regular meeting at 6 p.m. March 27 at the Hailey Towne Center. The meeting is open to the public.

Scott Basolo, a Hailey engineer, put in a plug for allowing businesses to operate out of homes, provided they don't generate a lot of traffic in residential neighborhoods. The opportunity to operate out of his home helped him establish a business in Hailey, Basolo said.

The comprehensive plan, designed to guide the city's development and growth, calls for lessened dependency on the automobile, a strong education system and abundant open space and parks. It also calls for the creation of community rather than "mere development" of land and calls on citizens to find ways to preserve community history and character while dealing with anticipated growth.

The next hearing on the plan could come as early as the next council meeting on March 27 but it hasn't yet been put on the agenda.

Utah police officer turns in fellow officers in alleged theft case

FARMINGTON, Utah (AP) – An officer facing a felony theft charge told investigators that three West Bountiful police officers were stealing from the department's evidence room, Davis County Attorney Mel Wilson said.

Through an attorney, Patrick Jellerson implicated the three officers, Wilson said. One officer has resigned, one has retired and the other is on administrative leave. Jellerson approached the County Attorney's Office with allegations in hopes of getting his charges reduced, Wilson said.

"I hate these cases where we have to give a deal to get others, especially this case where we have officers turning on other officers," Wilson said.

Traveling trophy eases pain

By Coreen Hart
Times-News correspondent

Tammy Walters has started a project that she hopes will benefit St. Nicholas School for many years in her husband's memory. She and her son Alex bought this eagle sculpture, which will be auctioned off annually at the school's Basque dinner.

COREEN HART/The Times-News

RUPERT – For Tammy Walters and her son, Alex, Saturday night will be an emotional time.

Once again, people will hear a little about her late husband, Ivan Walters, and tell each other what a nice man he was. And the eagle that she bought last year will be auctioned off for the second time.

The eagle is a sculpture by Boise artist Steve Davies. Titled "Coming Home," it has become a traveling trophy.

When Ivan Walters died in 1998 at age 42, Tammy Walters said her husband knew he would die young. When the two were dating, Ivan Walters warned her that he came from a line that had heart problems and diabetes.

Ivan Walters spent the last two years of his life unable to work in his machine shop. So he got involved at his son's school and drove children on field trips and helped out wherever he could. He was around so much that every student knew him.

"He knew he didn't have a lot of time so he made the most of every day," said his longtime friend Larry Lloyd. "For a man who was as sick as he was, he never mentioned it. When you talked to him, it was all positive. Ivan was one of those few men in the world who don't make a lot of waves, but he touched a lot of lives."

Kenneth Walters, Ivan's cousin and close friend, made an easel to hold the plaque that travels with the sculpture.

"I guess when it's family, it's what you do," Kenneth Walters said. "We more or less grew up together. His mom died early, and my mom took care of him just like one of the boys. He was generous. He always pitched in and lent a hand."

When his wife, WIC coordinator for the South Central District Health Department, began to deal with her loss, she realized that she wanted his memory to go on. The most fitting way she could imagine would be a way to benefit the St. Nicholas School, where he gave so much time.

Finally, her sister found the perfect eagle in Boise made from iron, with brass accents. The eagle is poised for landing.

It was auctioned for the first time last year at the Basque dinner put on by the St. Nicholas School each year. Fittingly, it went to the family of Peggy O'Donnell, who had taught at the school for many years.

The Basque dinner has come around again, and the eagle will again be auctioned off. Since Tammy Walters gave the sculpture to St. Nicholas Catholic Church, all the proceeds will be used to aid the school.

Policy-makers discuss livable wages

By Coreen Hart
Times-News correspondent

BURLEY – A group of local policy-makers met at the Mini-Cassia Chamber of Commerce Tuesday for a teleconference on what constitutes a livable wage and how that can vary from one area to another.

"We are just beginning this dialogue," said Candy McElfresh of the South Central Idaho Worksl board, which sponsored the conference.

In some cases, raising a person's wage by only $1 an hour disqualifies them from Medicaid or other benefits. What would benefit a single mother with one child is probably different than what would benefit a family with one working parent and several children.

Todd Christensen, Mini-Cassia's economic development coordinator, explained this area has a good capability for technical investment, and local employers are asking how to keep employees. Many inquiries to his office come from people seeking to relocate, who ask about quality of life.

Cat Powell of the Center for Career Development said people want more money but have family ties to this area.

"Most of the Burley people I talk with say that they need higher wages, and they do not want to leave their homes," Powell said.

Mini-Cassia's unemployment rate is moderate, but above the state average. Christensen said he sees a lot of underemployment – people who are qualified for better jobs, but are working at low-tech positions.

Gary Rogers of the state's Labor Department said the area is a good choice for call centers.

Sun Valley consultant Al Lindley, however, said the area has lots of fiber optics but inadequate switching capability. "Mini-Cassia is a good base area for access by these major companies," Lindley said.

"You're halfway between Salt Lake and Boise."

Budget writers chafe from critics

BOISE, Idaho (AP) – Stung by criticism of their colleagues that they have overstepped their authority, legislative budget writers on Tuesday shied away from taking any actions that could be interpreted as dictating policy to the rest of the Legislature.

"We're a little reluctant," House Appropriations Chairman Bob Geddes, R-Preston, said. "There are concerns in either house that we write policy in setting the budgets."

That attitude kept the Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee from completing the Fish and Game Department budget until final action is taken on the House-passed $4.4 million increase in sportsmen's fees and on portions of the court system budget that will be affected by impending votes in both the House and Senate.

It also led to defeat of a proposition to check the Fish and Game Commission's land acquisition authority.

But the test of that reserve will come later in the week when the House-Senate panel finally faces state aid to public schools – a decision that could affect or would be affected by the debate over tax cuts and a court suit settlement.

Budget writers made what other lawmakers see as major policy earlier this year when they authorized less than half the cash sought for determining whether students have met new high school graduation standards and changed key elements of the state's Medicaid program.

The committee left undetermined the allocation of the revenue generated by the sportsmen's fee hike, which has passed the House and is awaiting action by the Senate Resources and Environment Committee. Gov. Dirk Kempthorne wants to save $700,000 of the extra revenue as a hedge against future problems in the financially beleaguered agency.

The aversion to setting policy also killed Rep. JoAn Wood's attempt to preclude the commission from purchasing any new land or easements until it certifies to the Legislature that existing easements and land are being adequately managed and maintained.

Rejected on a 14-5 vote, critics said the restriction was unclear and could preclude the acquisition of critical habitat and other areas benefiting sportsmen. The same proposal was also rejected by the resource committee.

"This would establish policy, rather than in the resource committee, on a real contentious issue," Democratic Rep. Ken Robison of Boise said. "This committee should not be intruding into this area."

The court system budget was left open to accommodate a 5 percent pay increase for judges, which has yet to be introduced. It carries a price tag of over $600,000.

Local high schools boogie down

Connie Remsberg
Times-News correspondent

RUPERT – The student council at Minico High School is hosting a party for area high school students.

The council has organized an evening of dancing, games and food for students from Burley, Declo, Minico, Oakley and Raft River high schools. The student councils from all the schools are participating in the activity.

The event, dubbed "March Madness of the Millennium," will be held from 8 to 11:30 p.m. Friday at Minico High School.

"The party will be a great time," said Nick Fulcher, student body vice president at Minico. "You would be able to meet new people and new friends from other area high schools."

March Madness of the Millennium, a combined carnival and dance, will feature a variety of games and activities including monster boxing, laser tag and a climbing wall. The evening will also include a dance and plenty of food.

The March Madness event began three years ago when area high schools decided to do something to lessen the rivalry between them, said Terry Johnson, student body advisor at Minico.

The event will be chaperoned by Minico teachers and paid for by money made from ticket sales. Additional money made from the event will help pay for school activities sponsored by the schools' student councils.

Tickets are $5 and can be purchased from student council members through the end of the week. Tickets will not be available at the door.

"Its going to be the best party of the year," Fulcher said.

Rupert residents respond to annexation

By Lorraine Cavener
Times-News writer

RUPERT – About 200 residents filled the room at Tuesday's City Council meeting to let city leaders know just how they felt about a proposed annexation of property.

The property is located between 100 South and 100 North and between100 West and 100 East.

"I am in favor of our property being annexed with the provision that we get water and sewer before I die," said George Falkner.

Falkner said the two to 10 years city officials predicted it would take to get water and sewer to some of the areas in the proposed annexation area was too long to wait.

Most who spoke at the meeting said they wouldn't want to pay the $300 to $400 in property taxes city officials estimated it would cost. Residents also complained about the additional $300 to $1,000 in water and sewer hookup fees.

Many residents said they already had their own wells and septic tanks. They also said the law enforcement services they receive from the Minidoka County Sheriff's Office were sufficient.

"When your wells or septic systems begin to fail are we in a position to help you?" asked Councilman Layne Rutschke.

The city's $3.75 million dollar water and sewer project, which is near completion, will be able to provide residents with water and sewer services in the future, Rutschke said.

"Right now we have no services if someone wants to come in," he said. "As a community we have to come together to start to try to make a change."

But some said the city has lost business and is in an economic slump and now is not the time to make big changes.

"The City Council is taking on too big of a bite," said Connie Stalley, a resident in the area of the proposed annexation. "We need to take little baby steps."

Others were concerned the council would make a decision regardless of what residents had to say.

"We know that with the stroke of a pen you can tax us," said resident Ramon Christiansen. "We plead to your sense of fairness and integrity."

City Attorney Rick Bollar said the law allows the council to make a decision without the approval of residents who live in the area of the proposed annexation.

That didn't please some Rupert residents.

"We as Americans don't like done deals," Christiansen said. "That's the way we are feeling here."

Christiansen said he had sent a letter with questions about the annexation to council members in January and had not heard back from any of them.

The council was asked how much the project would cost residents.

"The city should be able to present us with some firm numbers," Christiansen said.

There will be two more public hearings before the council makes a final decision on the annexation.

House endorses beef facility enviro act

BOISE – A House panel on Tuesday endorsed a measure designed to increase the level of environmental standards for beef cattle feeding operations.

The measure, drafted by the Idaho Cattle Association as a proactive measure against industry regulation imposed by the state, consolidates regulation and enforcement of state and federal environmental requirements with the Idaho Department of Agriculture.

Comfortable with the department's acumen with inspections, ICA said the measure, Senate Bill 1398, will increase the speed and efficiency of enforcement while imposing a more stringent level of standards.

The House panel unanimously approved the measure which will now be considered by the full House. It has already been approved by the Senate. With the House's endorsement, Gov. Dirk Kempthorne's signature will make the measure law.

Valley in brief

Ketchum will apply for transportation grant

KETCHUM – The city of Ketchum has decided to apply for a Transportation Enhancement Grant for the 2002-2003 fiscal year.

The federal grant, which would be awarded in October and could be used by the city for improvements along Warm Springs and Sun Valley roads and to provide sidewalks, curbs and gutters in an area west of Main Street.

Councilman Randy Hall on Monday expressed concerns about using taxpayers' money to benefit what in some cases might be only private homeowners. Councilman David Hutchinson said the city might get more done utilizing the grant and local improvement district money.

Council members decided to go ahead with the application saying they can debate the particulars between now and the time the grant is awarded.

Gray reappointed to Ketchum City Council

KETCHUM – The City Council on Monday unanimously approved the reappointment of Peter Gray to Ketchum's Planning and Zoning Commission.

Gray will serve a three-year term.

Veterans react to shoddy medical benefits

REXBURG (AP) – Veterans complained of long waiting lists at hospitals and even longer drives to reach those places during a meeting with staff members from U.S. Sen. Larry Craig's office.

"I'm going to be dead before my wife turns 65," Dale Duffin, an Army veteran from Rexburg, said Monday. "I know that. I don't know how she's going to pay for her medicine."

The meeting was the first of several in eastern Idaho. A similar meeting in Idaho Falls, also on Monday, drew about 85 people.

Lori Otto, who is a legislative assistant for Veterans Affairs in Craig's office, and Major Mitch Butikofer, also a member of Craig's staff, are hosting the meetings. Craig is one of two senators to sit on both the authorizing and appropriating committees for veterans legislation in the Senate.

"The reason we're here is to listen and take your ideas back to congress," Otto said.

And there was no shortage of ideas, or acrimony, from the crowd gathered at the Madison County Courthouse Monday.

The veterans said the United States made a simple promise to them. Serve your country and receive health care for the rest of your life.

"The promise is 50 or 60 years old now," said John Phillips, an Army veteran from Tetonia. "We don't have anything. We don't have a thing."

And that could be slow to change.

Otto and Butikofer said the Veterans Administration budget is $1.709 billion more than last year.

But those are national numbers, and the veterans pressed for specifics on how the funding increase would meet the needs of the 806 veterans in Madison County and the 7,086 veterans in Bonneville County.

"Congress is getting the message," Butikofer said. "They are trying to take care of your needs."

"By the time they get it settled, we'll be dead," Phillips countered.

Forest Service chief says he will not sign agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) – Forest Service Chief Mike Dombeck said Tuesday he would not sign an agreement that would have environmental groups carry out analysis for President Clinton's proposal to ban development in 50 million acres of forests.

Rep. Helen Chenoweth-Hage questioned Dombeck about a memo that she said shows the Forest Service was developing an agreement to have environmental groups help map and assess roadless forests, a key step in carrying out Clinton's plan. "That has not merely crossed the line, it totally obliterates the line" between government and interest groups, the Idaho Republican said at a hearing of her forests and forest health subcommittee.

But Dombeck said the Forest Service has signed no such agreement and that he can't be held accountable for a memo written by environmentalists.

"Nathan was a preexisting condition before this accident," said Stephanie Van Diest, a neighbor of Hudelson's and Pullman's.

Twin Falls County Deputy Prosecutor Jill Sweesy said Hudelson had a history of driving violations.

She said Hudelson had been cited for reckless driving and inattentive driving. Hudelson also got a speeding ticket recently, Sweesy said.

Hudelson's attorney, Rockne Lammers, said his client was not a "sophisticated" person, but added that Pullman's death was accidental.

"His punishment is living every day with the fact that Mrs. Pullman isn't here anymore," Lammers said. "It wasn't something Nathaniel intended to do."

Hansen goes without fire department

By Margaret Jones
Times-News correspondent

HANSEN – For the time being, Hansen is without a fire department.

Fire Chief John Hinton has moved to the Midwest, leaving the city without a fire chief or volunteer firemen, Mayor George Urie said.

Urie said the city would be protected for a short time with a mutual aid agreement with the Rock Creek Fire District.

However, this agreement was to offer assistance in an emergency, not make Rock Creek the sole provider of fire protection.

At the present time Urie had no solution to the problem. Any replacements would have to be trained firefighters.

In other business:

- The council authorized spending up to $8,000 on a new office computer system. The software for this system would run around $5,000, and it's unclear whether the city's new computer would be compatible with the current system. That means the city might need to purchase another machine.

Council members Tom Kennedy and Laura Nelson voted to purchase the program. Council member Roger Shanahan voted against this purchase and suggested they contact the Association of Idaho Cities to get their recommendations.

- The council voted to contribute $100 to a memorial fund for Timothy Dulin, a student who died last week in a head-on accident.
- Urie announced he had received a letter from the J.R. Simplot Co. offering to sell a parcel of land in the city limits on the north side of U.S. Highway 30. The sale price was about $14,000.

Historical courthouse gets closer to face lift

By Mickey Brown
Times-News correspondent

SHOSHONE – The Lincoln County Courthouse is closer to getting a face lift.

County commissioners on Monday decided to begin seeking bids from professional firms to conduct a structural study of the building which is listed on the National Historical Registry.

Safety concerns led county officials to look into renovating the courthouse. Carleen Herring of Region IV Development presented commissioners with a list of recommendations from historical architect Fred Walters, who assessed the building in January.

Commissioners adopted his recommendation to conduct a two-phase feasibility study on the condition of the building. Commissioners are expected to award the bid in May and the study should begin in June.

In other action Monday, commissioners reviewed two appeals of decisions made by the county Planning and Zoning Commission.

Gary Engman, president of Wildhorse Land and Cattle Co., asked county commissioners to reconsider the planners' decision to deny his rezone application. Engman said adjoining properties had been rezoned from agricultural to commercial, located along U.S. Highway 75.

"According to the comprehensive plan that corridor along there, and the commission all agreed, was where businesses could be established," said Carol Boudreau, the county's planning and zoning administrator.

In a letter sent to the board, Engman stated he had hoped to begin construction of a lumber business by early April which would employ 10 to 20 people on a permanent basis.

Katherine Peterson also asked for an appeal of a decision to not allow her to place a manufactured home on five acres of property.

Commissioners will reconsider both applications at a meeting in April.

Also Monday, commissioners approved raising the salaries of deputies and clerical assistants from $1,080 to $1,130 per month.

Eden looks to crack down on dogs

By Julie Pencé
Times-News correspondent

EDEN – Most of the city's dogs are now licensed, but some residents still have some pet peeves.

Among the complaints are that too many dogs are allowed in one household and that there is too much barking at night.

"I think we've got almost as many dogs as we have citizens," said City Councilman Joseph Fenn at Monday's meeting.

The council decided to have the city's attorney draft an ordinance to limit the number of dogs to three per household. If passed, owners could have up to six dogs, but they would have to purchase a $100 kennel license.

Councilman Charles Solace said the city's nuisance ordinance already deals with the problem of barking dogs. He said residents can sign a complaint at City Hall and the city maintenance supervisor would approach the owner of the offending dog. If the owner does not take care of the problem in a reasonable amount of time, the dog would be picked up, Solace said.

Also Monday, the council agreed that property owners must obtain the City Council's approval before subdividing their land.

In other action Monday, City Clerk Edith Utt told the council that the Jerome County Sheriff's Office is now patrolling the area on Idaho Highway 26 where children catch the school bus. She also said she contacted the state about repainting lines and installing crossing signs in the area.

Gooding commissioners listen to a request for a canal gate

By Amy Wilson
Times-News correspondent

GOODING – A Gooding resident wants to see a gate put up at the bridge on Seventh Avenue in front of the canal, for the safety of area children.

Margaret Sjostrom discussed the matter with Gooding County commissioners Monday. She was told instead to contact Region IV Development Corp. in Twin Falls to see about the possibility of a municipal grant.

So far, Sjostrom said she has attended city, county and school board meetings for the past month seeking help, with no results.

In other county business:

- Emergency Medical Services Director Krista Merrill would like to raise ambulance rates from $6 to $7.50 per mile, saying Gooding's base rates are the lowest in Idaho. County Commissioner Win Henslee said that he would not feel comfortable raising the rates without knowing the cost projections.
- Planning and Zoning chairman Dave Adair said telecommunication tower applications should include designations to say what kind of equipment the towers would serve.
- South Central Community Action Agency Executive Director Theresa Pendleton met with commissioners to review available community benefits.

The agency's goal is to provide economic help by offering housing assistance, emergency food, school supplies and family development.

Pendleton said the agency is trying to gather enough money to build a new office in Twin Falls, and is asking the community for help in reaching this goal.

A golf marathon fund-raiser will be held at the Blue Lakes Golf Course in Twin Falls on June 21.

County Clerk Helen Edwards said the Gooding office also offers help with legal matters, such as divorce, through the Gooding court assistance program. The program offers help for low-income people who need legal assistance.

For more information on the South Central Community Action Agency program, call Pendleton in Twin Falls at (208) 743-2307, or e-mail her at terrip@magiclink .com

Hollister council decides to spray

By Mickey Brown
Times-News correspondent

HOLLISTER – The Hollister City Council has changed its mind, and will spray herbicides and pesticides at the city park.

Earl Olson owner of Idaho Lawn Care, discussed the spraying. The council had decided previously not to hire back Idaho Lawn Care, in a cost-cutting move.

"You may save a few dollars, yes, but is it really worth it when you consider the liability factor?" Olson asked.

Olson outlined the type of service and the liability coverage his company provides.

"All it takes is one person who is insecticide or herbicide sensitive to sit in your park and you've got problems," he said. "I carry a million dollars worth of insurance for just that type of situation."

In other business:

- Councilman Ron Hunnicutt asked for decisions on the city's water system concerns, outlined at a workshop last month.

Members had discussed installing a telephone warning or alarm system that would notify city officials when something went wrong at the wellhouse or with the pumps. The present system consists of a warning light atop the water tower that turns on in an emergency.

"The problem with our light system is the only ones that can see it are people driving down the highway and they don't know what it means," Hunnicutt said.

The council voted to install a telephone warning system, at a cost of up to $1,000 for installation or $40 per month for service.

The council discussed the purchase of an air conditioner to relieve heat buildup in the wellhouse. Councilman Eric Webb was appointed to obtain at least three prices for a unit and costs will be reviewed at next month's meeting.

Members also approved keeping a logbook to document routine pump maintenance and wellhouse operation.

- Hunnicutt reported on an air impact review committee's recent meeting, to develop goals and objectives.

The three goals formed from the meeting were to maintain open lines of communication between the city and owners and operators of the Reitsma Dairy, provide educational material and serve as a problem-solving group, Hunnicutt said.

"We discussed the possibility of a joint community-dairy activity," Hunnicutt said. "We also have approval for any of our committee members to conduct tours at the dairy."

Some residents have complained about odor problems from the Reitsma Dairy. Dairy operators have been working to upgrade operations at the dairy, to eliminate odor problems.

Members of the committee are Ron and Carol Hunnicutt, Susan Reitsma, Eric and Tracy Webb, Mike and Toni Brown, Peggy Hamby and Rex Hoyt.

- The council voted to vacate land along West Railroad Avenue.

Knight Ridder News Service

BOISE – Rep. Golden Linford, R-Rexburg, convinced the House State Affairs Committee last week to introduce a bill that could make it more difficult for power companies to buy or merge with other power companies.

The bill comes as a result of the recently concluded buyout of PacifiCorp by ScottishPower. PacifiCorp does business in eastern Idaho as Utah Power Co.

Linford and other eastern Idahoans discovered during the ScottishPower merger talks last year that the statutory instructions to the Public Utility Commission to approve mergers makes it too easy for out-of-state or, as in the case of ScottishPower, international power companies to buy Idaho utilities. The PUC must ensure only that "the public interest will not be adversely affected."

Wholesale power deregulation, as well as the anticipated deregulation of electricity on the retail level, will encourage mergers and buyouts in the utility industry, Linford said.

"Those of us on the other side of the state have already been affected," Linford told legislators. Idaho Power Co. or Avista, north Idaho's utility, could be next, he warned.

The bill says any proposed merger or buyout will have to do more than not adversely affect Idaho ratepayers, but promote public interest and not increase rates.

A power company coming into Idaho would also have to prove financial stability, guarantee reliability and protection of Idaho's water.

The director of the Idaho Department of Water Resources would have to conclude that existing water rights are protected from a buyout of hydro-generating power plants.

Before the ScottishPower merger was approved, the company had to ensure in writing that PacifiCorp's hydroelectric facilities along the Bear River in southeastern Idaho and along the Henry's Fork in the Upper Snake River would still be used primarily for irrigation and secondarily for power generation.

Despite the tougher standards in the bill, the ScottishPower merger still would have been approved, Linford told the committee.

Bill targeting unruly fans dies

BOISE (AP) – The House Education Committee killed legislation aimed at reining in unruly sports fans at school and youth games who sometimes cross over the line to potentially criminal behavior.

The legislation earlier was approved by the Senate 24-7. But committee members on Tuesday were troubled by the bill's combination of criminal penalties and civil damage assessments and voted 7-5 against endorsing it.

Republican Rep. Leon Smith, a Twin Falls lawyer, said the plan could have set a precedent inviting civil complaints from people in any number of other occupations that involve dealing with "difficult people," such as police officers.

How to hang a quilt

What is the best way to hang a quilt on the wall in an attractive manner without damaging it?

A well-made quilt is far more than something used for warmth on cool nights. A quilt reflects the sensibilities and skills of its maker, and if it's an antique, it captures a piece of the past as well. Some are so beautifully stitched and patterned that they're works of art – so what better place to display them than on the wall?

Here's a technique I learned from Tracy Jamar of Textile Restoration Studio in East Hampton, N.Y. (When you are hanging a quilt, it is important to choose a spot that is out of direct sunlight, which fades fabric.)

ASK MARTHA
Martha Stewart

For this project, you will need a sturdy wooden strip that's as long as the top edge of the quilt; a 2 1/2-inch-wide piece of cotton fabric of the same length; and two kinds of Velcro tape: adhesive and non-adhesive.

Start by varnishing the wooden strip. Turn under the edges of the cotton strip and iron. Sew 6-inch-long pieces of the non-adhesive Velcro tape to the cotton strip (use the "loop" half of the Velcro), leaving 1 1/2 to 2 inches of space between them.

Using a straight edge and tailor's chalk, mark a straight line on the back of the quilt, about an inch down from the top edge. Pin the cotton to the quilt, laying it on the line you've just marked. Hand-stitch the cotton in place, catching as many layers of the quilt as you can without breaking through to the decorative front.

Adhere 6-inch lengths of the adhesive Velcro (make sure you use the "hook" half) to the wooden strip. Attach the wooden strip to the wall with screws or nails at the appropriate height. Press the quilt to the wooden strip, making sure the Velcro matches up.

How can I get my home to smell fresh after cooking fish?

There are a number of foods with an unpleasant odor that lingers in the kitchen long after we've prepared them, and fish is probably one of the worst offenders.

According to Dr. John Singer, a chemist from New London, N.H., the heat in the cooking process breaks down naturally occurring chemical compounds in the fish and sends them airborne, where they cling stubbornly to walls, curtains, clothing and anything else with which they come in contact.

There are countless commercial air fresheners available, but most just mask the scent with perfume rather than eliminate it.

Acetic acids, found in both citrus fruits and vinegar, will combat the odor-causing compounds in fish. Drizzling fish with generous amounts of lemon or lime juice before cooking will prevent much of the smell from forming in the first place.

You might want to try diffusing white or cider vinegar into the air to help diminish the scent; this can be accomplished by simmering four parts of water with one part vinegar in an open pan while the fish cooks or soon after.

Some people find, however, that the scent of vinegar isn't any more appealing than that of fish. You can get around this by adding aromatic spices to the water-vinegar mixture.

Dietitian celebrates nutrition month

By Dixie Thomas Reale
Times-News correspondent

BRUCE SHIELDS/The Times-News

Maxine Schroeder is a clinical dietitian with Magic Valley Regional Medical Center. Diet is an increasingly important part of preventative medicine.

TWIN FALLS – To celebrate National Nutrition Month, Maxine Schroeder is urging everyone to practice healthy nutrition habits.

This month, Schroeder, a dietitian at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center, is teaching her clients to use the food guide pyramid every day.

The pyramid divides foods into categories. The top of the pyramid lists fats, oils and sweets – which should be used very sparingly. The second rung lists the milk, yogurt and cheese group – two to three servings daily. Also on the second rung are the meat, poultry, fish, dry beans, eggs and nuts group – two to three servings daily. The third level lists the vegetable and fruit group – three to five servings daily. The base of the pyramid lists the bread, rice and pasta group – six to 11 servings daily.

People are advised to eat from the bottom of the pyramid upward, choosing most of their daily food from the bottom two levels – breads, rice, pasta, fruits and vegetables. People need to eat only a couple of servings from the milk and meat group each day and avoid the fats and sweets as much as possible.

"Everyone needs a little fat," Schroeder said, "but use the liquid fats rather than the solid animal fats. The basic problem with fats and sweets is that these foods provide calories, but not much vitamins or minerals."

Today's food labels on products give a wealth of information – serving sizes in both cups and grams, total calories and calories from fat, nutrients and the percent of daily requirement for the nutrients. People should pay attention to the serving sizes listed on the food labels, dietitians say.

Dietitians at Magic Valley Regional design diets for 60 to 80 people of all ages each day. These people have varied medical problems. The dietitians consider age, medical history, lifestyle, health and whatever medications the patient is taking. Dietitians can also prescribe diets aimed at weight loss, diabetes or weight gain.

Although the idea is still in its infancy, research indicates that future diets may be prescribed to help cure as well as prevent disease, Schroeder said.

RAGOUT OF TUNA

(Serves 6)

Regular:
2 garlic cloves, minced
1 pound ripe tomatoes, coarsely chopped
2 medium onions, peeled
1 sprig fresh mint, leaves removed and chopped or 1 teaspoon dried mint
2 to 2 1/2 pounds tuna
1/2 to 1 teaspoon salt
Freshly ground black pepper (to taste)
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 cup olive oil
1/3 cup dry white wine
1 1/4 cup hot water
(20 grams fat, 37.5 grams protein, 274 calories)

Modified for weight loss or diabetic:
2 garlic cloves, minced
1 pound ripe tomatoes, coarsely chopped
2 medium onions, thinly sliced
1 sprig fresh mint, leaves removed and chopped or 1 teaspoon dried mint
2 to 2 1/2 pounds fresh tuna
1/2 to 1 teaspoon salt
Freshly ground black pepper to taste
2 tablespoons olive oil
1/2 cup dry white wine
1 cup hot water
(3.5 grams fat, 37.5 grams protein, 237 calories)
Diabetic exchange: 5 ounces meat 1 starch

Make about a dozen incisions in the sides of the fish. Into each cut, insert a little mint, chopped garlic (using about half the total amount) and a little salt

Photos courtesy National Cattlemen's Beef Association and Beef Board

SPICY ASIAN BEEF AND NOODLES

1 pound beef round tip steaks, cut 1/8 to 1/4 inch thick
4 ounces uncooked vermicelli or thin spaghetti
3 tablespoons water
1 package (8 ounces) fresh sugar snap peas
1 cup packaged fresh matchstick-style shredded carrots
2/3 cup prepared stir-fry sauce, such as sesame-ginger flavor
1/4 teaspoon crushed red pepper

Cook vermicelli according to package directions; drain. Keep warm. Meanwhile stack beef steaks; cut lengthwise in half and then crosswise into 1-inch wide strips. Heat water in large nonstick skillet over medium-high heat until hot. Add sugar snap peas and carrots; cook and stir 3 to 4 minutes or until water is evaporated and vegetables are crisp-tender. Remove from skillet. Heat same skillet over medium-high heat until hot. Add 1/2 of beef; stir-fry 1 minute or until outside surface of beef is no longer pink. (Do not overcook.) Remove from skillet. Repeat with remaining beef. Combine stir-fry sauce and red pepper in same skillet. Return all beef and vegetables to skillet; heat through. Toss with vermicelli. Makes 4 servings.

NOTE: If sugar snap peas are not available, fresh pea pods may be substituted.

EASY BEEF POT ROAST WITH ZESTY RICE

1 package (about 2 pounds) fully cooked boneless beef pot roast with gravy
1 cup uncooked long grain white rice
1 teaspoon chili powder
1/2 cup frozen corn
1/4 cup prepared thick-and-chunky salsa
2 tablespoons chopped fresh cilantro
3/4 cup prepared thick-and-chunky salsa
Fresh cilantro sprigs (optional)

Cook rice according to package directions (omitting oil or butter), adding chili powder with the rice. Remove from heat. Stir in corn, 1/4 cup salsa and chopped cilantro.

Let stand, covered, 5 minutes. Meanwhile prepare beef pot roast with gravy according to package directions. Remove beef to platter; keep warm. Add 3/4 cup salsa to gravy; heat through. Serve pot roast with rice and gravy. Garnish with cilantro sprigs, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Roadshow – on the air

PBS's most popular show spurs interest in antiques

By Mary Daniels
Sun-Sentinel, South Florida

When a woman from Secaucus, N.J., bought a demi-lune card table for $25 at a garage sale in 1965, she thought she had found a bargain. As America watched, the retired schoolteacher learned her bargain was actually a treasure. The table, a John Seymour masterpiece, was appraised at $225,000-$300,000. It sold later at a Sotheby's auction for nearly $500,000.

This is the kind of tale that has Americans sitting on the edge of their La-Z-Boy recliners as appraisers build suspense on "The Antiques Roadshow," the most-watched series on public television with more than 14 million viewers a week. Roadshow mania has inspired disciples all over America to spend weekends routing through their attics and garage sales in search of their own hidden treasure.

If you love the show, you'll adore the book. "The Antiques Roadshow Primer" (Workman, $19.95 paperback and $28.95 hardcover) is an easy-to-read guide designed to help you determine whether Aunt Bessie's table is treasure or trash.

"We just wanted to do a book that would demystify antiques for the average reader, which is essentially what the 'Roadshow' does," author Carol Prisant said in a telephone interview from her home in Roslyn, N.Y.

Prisant has the credentials. New York editor of the British magazine, The World of Interiors, she is a former antiques dealer and an appraiser of fine and decorative arts. "Roadshow" appraisers, such as regulars Leigh and Leslie Keno, Kathleen Guzman and Jonathan Snellenburg, also added their expertise.

The advice from the experts has a lot of meaning for aging Baby Boomers, whose parents are dying and leaving them their estates. Here's Prisant's six-point checklist for sorting what you've inherited:

- Don't throw anything away casually. As anyone who watches the "Roadshow" knows, beauty often has nothing to do with value. Some of the ugliest things are worth the most money.
- Condition is extremely important.
- Provenance increases value: "No matter how many people in the family told you that an item belonged to Empress Josephine, unless you have the paper or DNA, you can't count that fact into its potential value."
- Typically, there is an order of value. The most valuable items are paintings and sculpture, followed by jewelry.
- Anything that is signed, which means it has a name on it, is worth looking into and worth keeping until you explore the significance. But forget about numbers; there are no books listing numbers.
- If you have a wonderful Ming vase and someone drilled a hole in it to make a lamp, it has lost its value. If the lamp has a rod up the back to run the wiring, it has kept its value.

The making of 'The Antiques Roadshow'

Chicago Tribune

If your ambition is to get on "The Antiques Roadshow," here's a clue: What the producers are looking for is a guest who is what they call a "virgin," not just a great heirloom antique or remarkable flea-market find.

"We want to have people on 'The Roadshow' who don't know what the things they have are or what they are worth," explains Richard Wright, doll expert.

While the producers can choose from 10,000 to 15,000 people who line up with their cherished objects in each of the cities where "The Roadshow" appears (tapings were done in eight U.S. cities during 1999 and nine are scheduled for this summer), finding this elusive and often rare creature is not always easy in our increasingly antiques-savvy society.

The experts fly in to "The Roadshow" city on a Friday and put themselves up at their own expense. They begin appraising at 9 a.m. Saturday and continue to 5 or 6 p.m.

The American version of the BBC show premiered on June 1, 1996, says host Chris Jussel, a prominent antiques dealer and senior vice present of Sotheby's.com. "Ten percent of what comes to 'The Roadshow' is fantastic, 10 percent should be thrown out, 80 percent is middle of the road," he said.

Once the doors open at the show, the first 7,500 people out of the 10,000 to 15,000 who come get a ticket are admitted. After waiting in line three to four hours, guests get to their expert.

Dry, moldy bedroom set isn't a lost cause

By Anita Gold
Knight Ridder News Service

Q. We've inherited an antique bedroom set that's dried out and moldy. What can we do, or use, to bring the pieces back to life, and get rid of the awful smell?

A. To restore the furniture and to get rid of its awful smell, must, mold and warps, use Conrad's Furniture and Youth Wood Food Oil, available in two 16-ounce bottles for $30 postpaid shipped UPS, from Kurt Conrad, 2579 S. Commerce, Walled Lake, MI 48390, or phone 248-668-9577. The oil (which has a delightful fragrance) is an old family secret recipe made from plants, seeds, herbs, and roots. Wipe or saturate smelly drawers inside and out to get rid of the worst odors, Repeated use of the oil will remove warps in furniture over time. The oil also cleans and restores iron and tin beautifully.

and pepper. In a large non-stick skillet, heat the oil over moderately high heat. Add fish and brown on both sides. Pour the wine over the fish and continue cooking, basting with the liquid until the wine has completely evaporated (about 5 minutes). Remove fish to a casserole dish. Keep warm.

Add remaining garlic and onions to pan; sprinkle the flour and remaining salt and let it turn golden over low heat, about 5 minutes. Return fish to skillet. Add remaining tomatoes and hot water and simmer until fish is cooked and a sauce consistency is obtained. To serve, pour some of the sauce over fish and serve the rest of the sauce with noodles or rice as an accompaniment.

OLD FASHIONED POTATO SALAD

(Serves 8)

Regula:
1 cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon vinegar
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
1/2 teaspoon celery salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
(22.1 grams fat, 2.1 grams protein, 274 calories)

Modified for weight loss or diabetic:
1/2 cup imitation mayonnaise
1 tablespoon vinegar
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
1/2 cup celery salt
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
(1.7 grams fat, 2.5 grams protein, 106 calories)
Diabetic exchange: 1 1/2 starch

Blend all dressing ingredients. Add 4 cups diced cooked potatoes, 1 1/2 cups diced celery, 1/2 cup chopped scallions, 1/4 cup radishes and 2 tablespoons fresh minced parsley.

Chill thoroughly. Garnish with paprika and serve on a bed of lettuce if desired.

Beef

GARLIC-PEPPER BEEF STEAK AND POTATO WEDGES

1 pound boneless beef top sirloin steak, cut 3/4 inch thick
2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley
1 teaspoon garlic-pepper blend
2 potatoes (about 7 ounces each), each cut lengthwise into 8 wedges
1 tablespoon olive oil

Combine parsley and garlic-pepper blend; divide in half. Rub both sides of beef steak evenly with 1/2 of seasoning mixture; set aside. Combine potato wedges, oil and remaining 1/2 seasoning mixture in medium bowl; toss to coat evenly. Place steak, potatoes on rack in broiler pan so surface of beef is 2 to 3 inches from heat. Broil steak and potatoes 9 to 12 minutes until steak is medium rare to medium doneness, turning once. Remove steak from broiler pan; continue broiling potatoes 1 to 2 minutes or until tender and lightly browned. Carve steak into thin slices. Serve with potato wedges. Serve dressing as dipping sauce for potatoes. Makes 4 servings.

Best to follow spring's lead

GREEN THUMBPRINTS
Cathy Walworth

My friend Ed Hume, owner of the pretty face on television's "Gardening America" and Hume Seeds, says he knows why your seeds didn't grow last year.

"Most people plant seeds too deeply," Ed said recently. Think about it: How does Mother Nature plant a seed? When a seed matures it simply drops onto the ground. If it isn't gobbled up by a hungry bird, it might get scuffled around a little, rain might beat upon it a little, but it is deposited on top of the soil.

Like magic, it sprouts the following spring.

Ed's right. When we make a mistake in the garden it's usually because we didn't imitate Mother Nature. So this spring, do work up your soil, do wait until it warms up enough to plant – at least April 1 if you're starting seeds indoors and Mother's Day for direct outdoor sowing – and simply sprinkle your seeds where you want them to grow. Water. Let them think a gentle rain falls upon them every morning. In a couple of weeks, you should see green sprouts.

There are two letters about Christmas cactus this week, each bragging about the longevity of their flora as well as the great numbers of blooms. Confusion sets in, however, regarding the care of Schlumbergera after the flowers drop. And for good reason: These plants live so long they are often handed down from one generation to the next. Folks want to keep them around a long time.

Shlumbergera grow on jungle trees in the wild, and like to be treated as though they still reside in a moist, fertile jungle. They want normal room temperatures, medium to bright light without direct sun (remember, they think there should be a canopy of leaves overhead) and a rich, porous soil.

Christmas cactus want to be well watered from spring through blooming. And they want a liquid fertilizer every week.

To help yours set buds, set the plant outdoors during the shorter days of September and October, remembering to bring it in on frosty nights. Once inside, keep it in a room that is dark all night, or move it to a dark closet after sundown. Sometime during the holidays, the cactus should bloom (they don't always bloom at Christmas). After that, let it dry out between waterings and hold the fertilizer. When spring rolls around, repot it in an African violet soil mix. You can take cuttings in the spring to give to your friends.

Tip of the Week: If you plan to start seedlings indoors or protect cool season crops outdoors, now's a good time to begin collecting plastic milk jugs. Rinse them thoroughly and hang onto the caps.

Here are just a few ways they will help you with the gardening:

- Cut strips of the plastic to make plant labels (mark them with an indelible marker).
- Cut off the bottom third to create a mini-flat for seed starting.
- Cut off the bottom and use the top as a little greenhouse for individual plants.

Here's how to store them so they don't take over the whole house:

Cut a piece of string 6 feet long. Tie one end around the handle of a thoroughly rinsed and dried milk jug. Then, tie a loop in the other end of the string and find a hook or a nail to hang it on in your garage, barn, basement, shed, etc. To add to your collection, simply take the string off the hook and thread the string through the handle, like stringing a bead. Re-hang the string. They'll stay up and out of the way until you need them.

Special note: How nice it was to see all those Mini Cassia gardeners at the Home and Garden Show.

What's bugging your garden? Write to Cathy in care of this newspaper or e-mail her at: cwtwo@cyberhighway.net

Try green dumplings with lamb stew

By Linda Cicero
The Miami Herald

Q. With St. Patrick's Day coming up, I am reminded of a wonderful lamb stew my mother made every March 17 that had green dumplings. She thinks she clipped the recipe from a Southern Living magazine in the early to mid-1970s.

A. I found this recipe for lamb stew in a 1979 Southern Living cookbook titled "Soups and Stews" (Oxmoor House). The dumplings didn't actually turn green when I made this, but there are green flecks from the parsley. I used 1/3 cup of chopped parsley rather than the tablespoon called for to get a greener dumpling, and the flavor was quite nice. I suppose it would be no worse than making green beer to use green food coloring to tint the dumplings a more vivid color, but I don't think my Irish ancestors would be amused!

LAMB STEW WITH PARSLEY DUMPLINGS

2 pounds boneless lamb
6 peeled and carrots, diced
3 medium onions, peeled and diced
2 stalks celery, cut into 2-inch pieces
6 medium potatoes, peeled and quartered

FOR THE DUMPLINGS:

1 cup all-purpose flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/3 cup minced parsley
1 egg, beaten
1/3 cup milk
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine

Cut lamb into 1-inch cubes. Put into pan and cover with water; cover pan with tight fitting lid, bring to a simmer and cook slowly for 1 hour. Add carrots, onions, celery and potatoes. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Cover and continue cooking slowly until lamb and vegetables are done, about 1 hour more.

Meanwhile, make the dumplings: Combine the flour, baking powder and salt, then add the parsley. Combine egg, milk and butter, and add to dry ingredients, stirring only until flour is moistened and mixture is well blended.

About 15 minutes before stew is done, bring it to boiling and drop dumpling batter by tablespoonfuls onto meat and vegetables. Cover tightly and cook until done. Makes 6 servings.

Q. I've been trying to find a recipe for the red sauce used in Chinese restaurants. Some people pour the sauce over their food and some dip the meat or egg roll in the sauce. I've bought several commercial sauces but none come close the one served in the restaurant. It has just a little sweet taste and is smooth. It is not spicy or hot and has nothing else in it.

A. Most Chinese restaurants serve either sweet-and-sour sauce or plum sauce for dipping egg rolls and fried noodles. Sweet and sour is usually orange, and is sometimes called duck sauce. Plum sauce varies in shades of purplish red. Both are readily available in the Asian sections of supermarkets. If you use commercial plum sauce (prepared from plums, peppers, ginger and other spices), remove the large chunks of ginger before refrigerating it; otherwise the ginger seems to become the dominant flavor.

If you want to make your own plum sauce, here is a foolproof recipe I have used several times, from the excellent "Made in the Shade," the 1999 cookbook by the Junior League of Greater Fort Lauderdale. Try it with the crab meat wontons from the same cookbook; it's also a nice change for chicken nuggets or pot stickers.

HOT PLUM SAUCE

1/2 cup plum jam
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons ketchup
2 tablespoons brown sugar

Mix the jam, vinegar, ketchup and brown sugar in a microwave-safe dish. Heat for 30 seconds on high and stir. Makes about two-thirds cup.

CRAB WONTONS

8 ounces cream cheese, softened
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1/4 cup shredded crab meat
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
1 1/2 teaspoons garlic powder
Chopped green onions to taste
10 wonton wrappers

Beat the cream cheese in a mixer bowl until creamy. Stir in the Parmesan, crab, mayonnaise, garlic powder and green onions. Spoon 1 to 2 teaspoons of the mixture onto the center of each wonton wrapper. Twist top to seal. Deep fry in hot oil until golden brown (about 2-1/2 minutes) and drain on paper towels. Serve hot with plum sauce. Makes 10.

Add a bit of spice to this quick dinner

By Linda Gassenheimer
Knight Ridder News Service

Thick, hearty soup and a salad make a great quick dinner. I used to love to come home from school to a kitchen filled with the smell of a large pot of soup that had been simmering for hours.

I still love a good bowl of soup, but don't have hours to make it. This short-cut version takes only 25 minutes. It's a whole meal in a bowl.

This soup freezes well; if you have time, make double and you will have another meal ready.

SOUTHWESTERN THREE BEAN SOUP

1/2 medium red onion, diced (1 cup)
1 medium carrot, diced (1/2 cup)
2 small parsnips, diced (1/2 cup)
1 1/4 cups water, divided use
1 cup canned red kidney beans, rinsed and drained
1 cup canned chick peas, rinsed and drained
1 cup frozen baby lima beans
4 cups canned peeled tomatoes
1 cup fat free, low-salt chicken broth
1 teaspoon ground cumin
2 teaspoons chili powder
Salt and freshly ground black pepper
1 small French baguette

Place onion, carrots and parsnips with 1/4 cup water in a large saucepan. Saut 5 minutes. Add kidney beans, chick peas, lima beans, tomatoes, chicken broth, remaining 1 cup water, cumin and chili powder. Break up tomatoes with a spoon or knife and bring to a simmer. Simmer 20 minutes. Add salt and pepper to taste. Place bread in oven to warm for 5 minutes. Makes 2 servings.

Lander puts kitchen at center of family life

The Lander is a midsize contemporary home with a window-bright cluster of large, open gathering spaces filling the entire left side. Designed for construction on land that slopes to the left and rear, this single-level plan can easily be adapted for construction on a flat lot as well.

Entering, you step into a vaulted entry which opens into a vaulted dining room and living room. A wide bay window expands the sense of spaciousness in the dining room, while more windows and a glass door offer views of the landscape behind the house.

No matter where you are in the kitchen, you can keep tabs on activities inside and out. Corner windows in front of the sink allow you to look out over the street. Working at the counters or range, you can observe and interact with family or friends in the dining room or living room. The eating bar also serves to keep folks who just want to chat out of the way of the cooks.

The Lander's dining room has a built-in hutch and buffet. In the living room, a direct-vent gas fireplace provides warmth and color. Alternately, the home could be built with a fireplace that burns wood and has a chimney. Bookcases are on one side and a home entertainment center is on the other.

Master suite amenities include a deep walk-in closet and a private bathroom with double vanity. Laundry appliances are nearby in a utility room outfitted with plenty of cupboard space, shelves and a handy counter for folding clothes and linens.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $20 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Drive, Department W, Eugene, Ore. 97402. Please specify the Lander 30-225 and include a return address when ordering. A catalog featuring 300 home plans is available for $12. For more information call (800) 634-0123.

Here's a shady European import

DEAR JIM: Our house is in a subdivision with small lots. We want more privacy along with some savings on utility bills and better safety during storms. Are rolling window shutters a feasible option for us?

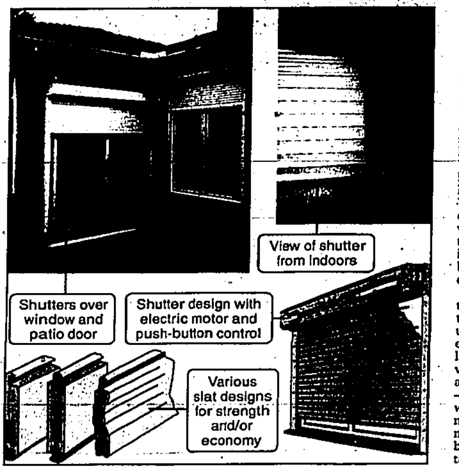
–ANN F.

SENSIBLE HOME
James Dulley

DEAR ANN: Rolling window shutters have been popular in Europe and along the hurricane-prone regions of the United States for many years. Now, with more concern about security, energy savings, tornado protection and privacy with today's smaller lots, they are becoming very popular throughout the United States.

If you have never seen residential rolling shutters over windows or patio doors, they are quite attractive. They are available in many colors and slat shapes and are custom designed to fit each window or door opening perfectly. Installing rolling shutters saves money in several ways. The slats, some filled with foam insulation, create an insulating dead air space outside your window to lower both heating and cooling bills. As described later, they also provide natural light without sacrificing security and privacy.

Rolling shutters are made of many horizontal 1 1/2- to 2-inch durable insulating slats that operate similar to a rolltop desk. The slat ends slide in small channels attached to the sides of the outdoor window opening. The slats roll up into a long narrow housing that is hidden under the roof overhang



View of shutter from indoors
Shutters over window and patio door
Shutter design with electric motor and push-button control
Various slat designs for strength and/or economy

Rolling shutters offer security, efficiency and privacy.

For convenience and security, you open and close the shutters from indoors. The least expensive method, for smaller windows, uses a small indoor strap to operate the shutter. For larger heavier ones, a hand crank is used. For very large ones or for extra convenience, an electric drive motor is used.

If you select a motor drive, consider one with hand-held, remote controls, just like on your TV. Some programmable units (Elero) allow you to press one button in a room to operate only selected shutters.

Timers, sun, wind and rain sensors can also automatically close shutters when you are away from home.

The slats in rolling shutters have open slots cut into the interlocking flanges between them. When the shutter is totally lowered and closes against the weatherstripping seal at the bottom, these open slots are hidden inside the mating slats. This blocks all light and about 70 percent of outdoor noise.

As you start to raise the shutter, the slats spread apart before the shutter actually begins to uncover the window. This exposes the slot openings for controllable levels of natural light and ventilation. The basic slat material options (in increasing cost) are – PVC plastic, rolled aluminum with insulation and extruded aluminum. Insulated rolled aluminum is tougher than PVC for better wind and impact resistance. Extruded aluminum is the strongest material, but it is heavier.

Write for Update Bulletin No. 693 – buyer's guide of 13 rolling shutters, materials, sizes, colors, insulation, controls and prices. Please include $3 and a business-size SASE.

Actor Grammer will sell one of two L.A. homes

Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES – Actor Kelsey Grammer has put a house that he owns in the Hancock Park area on the market at slightly more than $1 million.

The Emmy and Golden Globe-winning star of the NBC sitcom "Frasier" bought the home in November, about a month after he underwent an emergency appendectomy.

After buying the house, Grammer, 45, had it remodeled. When the refurbishing was completed, Grammer, who has another L.A.-area home that he shares with his wife, model Camille Donatacci, decided to list the Hancock Park home. Built in 1923, the three-bedroom, 2,800-square-foot home has a guest house and three fireplaces.

Boy group singer buys estate with parents

Singer Nick Carter of the pop group the Backstreet Boys and his parents, Robert and Jane Carter, have purchased a 10,000-square-foot home on 100 acres in the Santa Ynez Valley near Santa Barbara for $3.3 million.

The family, which also has a home on the Palos Verdes Peninsula, recently settled into their Santa Ynez Valley residence. The singer, 20, has been on the road and in other states most recently.

Since the quintet was formed in 1993, the group became the world's biggest-selling boy group in 1999 with its album "Millennium."

Built about nine years ago, the Santa Ynez Valley home has a small lake, swimming pool, tennis court, barn and guest apartment.

Presley garners $3 million from new buyer Principal

Actress Priscilla Presley has sold three acres in the Montecito area to actress Victoria Principal for about $3 million.

Presley had planned to build on the site, which has a guest house, but she changed her mind.

Presley had a role in "Melrose Place" and starred during the '80s and '90s in the TV series "Dallas" and a number of movies, including the "Naked Gun" series. The actress, 54, was married to Elvis Presley from 1967 to 1973.

Principal has made guest appearances this year on the NBC series "Providence." Last year she began playing a recurring role as the mother of the character Jack in "Jack & Jill" on the WB network.

All about garage-door openers

You might be able to fix that pesky problem yourself; read on

By James and Morris Carey
The Associated Press

For many, the ability to get into or out of a garage is as simple as the push of the button that activates an automatic garage door opener. Sometimes, however, the door won't open or close when commanded or, conversely, will open or close without being prompted. Other times, a garage door might operate sluggishly, reverse during an up or down cycle, or just stop operating altogether.

As with all mechanical components in a home, an automatic opener requires periodic maintenance and frequent testing to ensure safe and efficient operation.

Lubrication requirements and adjustment details are found in it. If you don't have one, you can usually order a replacement copy by contacting an installing dealer or the manufacturer. Some even make manuals available on the Internet. All you'll need is the brand and model number.

A visual inspection of the garage-door springs, cables, rollers and other door hardware is how to begin. Look for signs of wear and frayed or broken parts. Most minor repairs such as roller replacement can be done by a do-it-yourselfer, while more complicated tasks should be handled by a qualified garage-door service technician.

The springs and related hardware are under high tension and can cause severe injury when handled improperly.

Rollers, springs, hinges and tracks require periodic lubrication. Use spray silicone, lightweight household oil or white lithium grease in accordance with the instructions in your manual.

Periodically test the balance of the door. Start with the door closed. Disconnect the automatic opener release mechanism so the door can be operated by hand. The door should lift smoothly and with little resistance. It should stay open about three to four feet above the floor. If it doesn't, it is out of balance and should be adjusted by a professional.

In addition to extending its life, monthly inspection and testing of the automatic opener can prevent serious injuries and property damage. Allowing children to play with or use garage-door opener controls is dangerous and can lead to tragedy. A few simple precautions can protect your family and friends from potential harm.

Never stand or walk under a moving door. Don't let children play "beat the door." Keep transmitters and remote controls out of reach of children, and teach them that they are not toys. The push-button wall control should be out of reach of children (at least 5 feet from the floor) and away from all moving parts.

The button should be mounted where one can clearly see the door in full operation.

Test the force setting of the opener by holding up the bottom of the door as it closes. If the door does not reverse readily, the force is excessive and needs adjusting. The owner's manual will explain how to adjust the force sensitivity. To avoid entrapment, perform the one-inch reversing test after any repairs or adjustments are made to the garage door or opener.

Do this by placing a two by four block of wood flat on the floor in the door's path before activating the door. If the door fails to stop immediately and reverse when it strikes the wood, disconnect the opener and use the door manually until the system can be repaired or replaced.

Since April 1982, federal law has required that a closing garage door that is operated by an automatic opener must reverse off of a two-inch block. Even with the safety improvements resulting from this legislation, injuries continue to occur and safety is still an issue. Thus, a new law, enacted in 1993, requires that a garage door opener must be equipped with a monitored non-contact safety reversing device or safety edge that will stop and reverse a closing garage door.

An example of such a safety device is an electronic beam sensor which is installed at either side of the door opening and, which, when broken, will cause the door to stop and reverse itself.

A second safety feature is a pressure-sensitive electronic rubber strip that attaches to the bottom of the door where it makes contact with the floor. Just as with the beam sensor, when engaged, this safety edge will cause the door to stop and reverse itself avoiding injury damage to property.

Some common garage-door opener problems and their solutions:

- If an opener raises but won't close the door, the safety beam sensor might be faulty, misaligned or unplugged.
- An opener that operates by remote control but not by the wall switch is the sign of a short in the wiring or a loose connection at the switch.
- A remote control that doesn't work might be something as simple as a weak or dead transmitter battery, an antenna wire on the opener that is not properly exposed or a bad transmitter.
- If the opener is operating, but the door doesn't open, it might be due to a worn gear or chain-drive sprocket, a broken chain or the door being disengaged from the operator.
- An opener that operates by itself can be caused by a faulty transmitter, a short in the wall switch, a faulty circuit board or a stray signal – the latter being rare.
- If the remote control will operate the door only when 25 feet away or less, the battery in the remote might be weak or the signal poor.
- A door that reverses while closing or that doesn't completely open or close is usually obstructed or binding. This condition can also be caused when open limit or sensitivity is set wrong.
- A straining opener usually occurs when safety reversing is activated or the close limit is set improperly.

The Philadelphia Inquirer

Hammacher Schlemmer has come out with The Robotic Lawnmower.

Just in time to greet the new millennium.

The lawnmower is controlled by a computer guidance system and wire placed around the perimeter of the lawn. The press of a button directs it to advance to the wire and trim the lawn along it. Pressing another button instructs the mower to cut the lawn within the perimeter wire. Price of the lawnmower is $699.95. To obtain more information about it, visit http://www.hammacher.com/

Train signs of earlier years

WHAT'S WHAT
L.M. Boyd

In 1912, one Ralph R. Upton brought forth with a replacement sign: "Stop, look, listen."

Later, it was posted on car roads, too. Eventually it became the common counsel to anybody about to do anything dangerous.

No, sir, gin is not aged. You can drink it the day it's made. And many do, many do.

Q. How do the average figures of American women in this new millennium compare to those of a century ago?

A. They're taller by an inch, heavier by two pounds, trimmer around the waist and hips, but about the same in bust measurement.

Gila monsters are mentally challenged, so to speak. In the deserts where they live, they stay underground 98 percent of the time.

It's either too hot or too cold for them out in the open. Why don't they move?

DEAR ABBY
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have read your column since I was in high school but never dreamed that one day I would be writing to you.

My 21-year-old son and his 23-year-old girlfriend have been living together for nearly a year. They recently became engaged. My husband and I were delighted, because we were never happy about their living arrangement.

They have decided to be married on the beach in Hawaii. Her family owns a condo there. This presents a problem. My husband was recently laid off from his job, and money is tight. I explained to my son that my husband and I will be unable to attend the wedding. I asked them to please reconsider the ceremony in Hawaii, and to take their vows here. The trip to Hawaii could be their honeymoon.

He is my only son, and I have always dreamed of the day I would attend his wedding. However, after many lengthy discussions with him – some not so nice – it appears that I will not fulfill my dream. They told us that they have no intention of changing their plans. Of course, her parents will be at the wedding. They have much more money than we will ever have, and they planned on going anyway.

I feel betrayed and hurt by my son and his fiancee. I thought we had a good relationship. Am I right to feel this way? I have told my husband that if you say I should get over it, I will try. My daughter, who is 17, also feels that her brother is abandoning us for the new, wealthier family. Abby, perhaps I should mention that the future in-laws are planning on buying a house for the newlyweds.

I am heartbroken because of my son's disregard for my feelings. Every day that goes by drives a bigger wedge in my relationship with him. Please hurry your answer.

– MOTHER OF THE GROOM

DEAR MOTHER: I understand how hurt and saddened you are by the wedding plans. However, since the bride's family traditionally plans and pays for the wedding, it is up to them to decide where the ceremony will take place. The bride may have always dreamed of being married on the beach, and her dream must come before yours.

Your son is caught in the middle. He is trying to make his bride happy, form a good relationship with his new in-laws, and take your feelings and financial circumstances into account.

Perhaps your budget could be stretched to allow one of you to travel to Hawaii for the wedding, or you can host a small reception for the honeymooners when they return to the mainland. But please, do not make your son feel guilty.

DEAR ABBY: For the most part, the letter you printed from "No Name, No City, No Church" expressed some understandable sentiments. However, there was one statement made by "Ms. No" that caused me to take umbrage! She said, "If they (the men at church) were still unmarried in their 40s, there was usually a very good reason for it."

I am in my 40s. I am unmarried, and I often remark to friends that I love being single. There are many of us 40-ish men who are unmarried because we want to be – not because we are warped, psychotic, too attached to our mothers, immature, have smelly feet, or for any other reason. It's because we like it that way.

"Ms. No's" statement would seem to imply that there is some defect in us, and I just don't think that's true.

– MIDDLE-AGED, SINGLE AND CONTENT IN ANDERSON, S.C.

DEAR MIDDLE-AGED: You'll get no argument from me. Men like you are called confirmed bachelors. Your female counterparts are equally committed to singlehood. Since you are happy, and your social lives give you all the satisfaction you desire, enjoy!

Get ready for swimsuit season

VALLEY COOKING
Rebecca Tateoka

The last thing we all want right now is a lesson on fat. Here we are, facing swimsuit season, and the mere mention of fat sends us running for the gym, or for the nearest diet plan.

So if the temptation of fat puts you in combat mode, you probably think you have to eat "No Fat," "Fat Free" or "Lite" products to conquer the encroaching lines of the battle of the bulge. But information is probably one of the best ways to conquer a foe, and I'm going to educate you.

In a recent magazine, I read a little note about the difference between butter, margarine and vegetable oil spread. The bottom line is that butter and margarine both contain 80 percent fat, while anything below that has to be called a "spread." This holds true not only for the tub forms, but also the stick forms of the product.

Butter, as we know, is animal fat. If you have a tendency toward high cholesterol, butter is probably a double whammy: dairy and animal proteins.

Margarine is a butter substitute that uses vegetable oils. It's still oil, but you don't have the dairy problem. The problem you might run into when baking, though, is that some of those spread sticks look an awful lot like regular margarine.

I fell for that a couple of months ago, and I learned the hard way that chocolate chip cookies don't turn out nearly as well with spread in them. My saving grace was that I always mix shortening in my cookies. That added enough fat to make the cookies edible.

So when a recipe says "butter (no substitutes)," you probably better take it seriously. The texture and quality of all baked goods rely on the fat content.

This one has five grams of fat.

PUMPKIN COOKIES WITH PENUCHE FROSTING

Cookies:
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup packed brown sugar
1 cup margarine or butter, softened
1 cup canned pumpkin
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg
2 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup chopped walnuts or pecans
Penuche Frosting:
3 tablespoon margarine or butter
1/2 cup packed brown sugar
1/4 cup milk
1 1/2 to 2 cups powdered sugar

Heat oven to 350. In large bowl, beat sugar, 1/2 cup brown sugar and 1 cup margarine until light and fluffy. Add pumpkin, vanilla and egg; blend well. Add flour, baking powder, baking soda, cinnamon and salt; mix well. Stir in walnuts. Drop dough by rounded teaspoonfuls two inches apart onto ungreased cookie sheets. Bake at 350 for 10 to 12 minutes or until light golden brown around the edges. Immediately remove from the cookie sheets. Cool completely.

In medium saucepan, combine margarine and brown sugar. Bring to a boil. Cook over medium heat one minutes or until slightly thickened, stirring constantly. Cool 10 minutes. Add milk; beat until smooth. Beat in enough powdered sugar for desired spreading consistency. Frost cooled cookies. Let stand until frosting is set.

COUNTRY APPLE COFFEE CAKE

Coffee Cake:
2 tablespoons margarine or butter, softened
1 1/2 cup chopped peeled apples
1 10-ounce can refrigerated biscuits
1/3 cup packed brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/3 cup light corn syrup
1 egg
1/2 cup pecan halves or pieces
Glaze:
1/3 cup powdered sugar
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
1 to 2 teaspoons milk

Heat oven to 350. Using one tablespoon of the margarine, generously grease 9-inch round cake pan or 8-inch square pan. Spread one cup of the apples in greased pan. Separate dough into 10 biscuits; cut each into quarters. Arrange biscuit pieces, points up, over apples. Top with remaining 1/2 cup apples. In small bowl, combine remaining one tablespoon margarine, brown sugar, cinnamon, corn syrup and egg; beat two to three minutes or until sugar is partially dissolved. Stir in pecans; spoon over biscuit pieces and apples. Bake at 350 for 35 to 45 minutes or until deep golden brown. Cool five minutes.

In small bowl, blend glaze ingredients, adding enough milk for desired drizzling consistency. Drizzle over warm cake. Serve warm or cool. Store in fridge.

STRAWBERRIES AND CREAM PIE

Crust:
Pastry for one-crust pie
Filling:
1 8-ounce package cream cheese, softened (Neufchatel cheese can be used)
1/3 cup sugar
1/4-1/2 teaspoon almond extract
1 cup whipping cream, whipped
4 cup strawberries
Topping:
1/2 cup semi-sweet chocolate chips
1 tablespoon shortening

Prepare and bake pastry as directed; cool. In large bowl, beat cream cheese until fluffy. Gradually add sugar and almond extract; blend well. Fold in whipped cream. Spoon into cooled, baked pie shell. Arrange strawberries, points up, over filling. Refrigerate. In small saucepan over low heat, melt chocolate chips and shortening, stirring constantly until smooth. Drizzle over strawberries and filling. Refrigerate until set. Store in refrigerator.

Ham and Cheese Puff is the perfect potluck dish to serve at your next family gathering.

Taste of Home

For brunch, lunch or any time, this Ham and Cheese Puff was featured in Taste of Home magazine. It's from Nina Clark, of Wareham, Mass.

"People really go for the big chunks of ham combined with the flavors of mustard and cheese," Clark said. "Assembled the night before, it's a great make-ahead dish."

HAM AND CHEESE PUFF

6 cups cubed, fully-cooked ham
1 1/2 pounds Monterey Jack or Muenster cheese, cubed
1 medium onion, chopped
1/4 cup butter or margarine
16 eggs
7 cups milk
1/2 cup prepared mustard

Toss bread, ham and cheese. Divide between two greased 13-by-9-by-2-inch baking dishes. In a skillet, saute onion in butter until tender.

Transfer to a bowl. Add eggs, milk and mustard. Mix well. Pour over bread mixture.

Cover, and refrigerate overnight. Remove from the refrigerator 30 minutes before baking. Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees for 55 to 65 minutes or until a knife inserted near the center comes out clean. Serve immediately. Makes 24 to 30 servings.

Take a bite out of Irish festivities

By Cathy Thomas
Orange County Register

The homey scent of corned beef and cabbage always puts me in the mood to collect friends and family together to savor its rustic delectability. No wonder it's the cornerstone of St. Patrick's Day celebrations (March 17). Well, at least on this side of the Atlantic.

In rural Ireland, it was the traditional dish served on Easter Sunday. The beef, which was salted and brined during the winter to preserve it, was eaten after the meatless Lenten fast. But with the advent of refrigeration, fresh meats became increasingly prevalent.

For years, I've followed the simple formula prescribed by James Beard, the late culinarian often dubbed the Father of American Gastronomy. "Let it simmer at a faint, gentle ebullition," Beard wrote about corned beef cookery in "Theory and Practice of Good Cooking."

Whichever way you cook it, make sure you cook enough to provide plenty of leftover meat. Who can resist a corned beef sandwich on rye bread, smothered with sauerkraut, caramelized onions and melted Swiss cheese?

JAMES BEARD'S CORNED BEEF AND CABBAGE

5 pounds corned brisket of beef – 2 (2 1/2) pound briskets

1 large green cabbage, cut in wedges

Optional: About 4 tablespoons melted butter

For serving: Boiled red new potatoes

Optional Mustard Horseradish Sauce (see note)

Place corned beef in large pot. Add water to cover about 1 inch above meat, and the pickling spices. Cover and bring to boil on high heat. Reduce to medium-low and simmer 3-4 hours. During first 30 minutes of simmering, remove lid 3-4 times and skim off gray, foamy scum that rises to surface with wire skimmer or large spoon. This will give clearer purer broth. During last hour of simmering, add carrots and onions, cover again. During last 15 minutes, add cabbage, cover again. Transfer meat to cutting board; allow to rest 10 minutes before cutting into slices. Place meat and vegetables on serving platter and, if desired, brush vegetables with melted butter. Toss boiled new potatoes with butter and parsley to taste. Place on platter with corned beef or serve separately. Yield: 6 servings, with about 2 pounds of leftover corned beef

NOTE: If desired, prepare Mustard Horseradish Sauce to serve on the side. Combine 4 tablespoons Dijon mustard and 4 tablespoons prepared horseradish; stir to blend. If desired, add pinch of dried dill.

GLAZED CORNED BEEF

1 cup orange marmalade

4 tablespoons brown sugar

Place corned beef in large pot and cover by 1 inch with water. Cover and bring to boil on high heat. Reduce heat to medium-low and simmer gently 3-4 hours or until very tender. During first 30 minutes of simmering, skim scum from water occasionally. Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In small bowl, mix marmalade, mustard and brown sugar. Drain meat and place on ovenproof serving dish. Spoon marmalade mixture over beef, coating it thoroughly. Bake in preheated oven 30 minutes or until glaze is crisp and brown. Allow to rest 10 minutes before slicing. Serve hot or at room temperature. Yield: 6-8 servings

SLOW COOKER CORNED BEEF AND CABBAGE

12 pearl onions, peeled

2 1/2 pound corned beef brisket, cut into 3 crosswise pieces

1/2 medium cabbage, cut into wedges

Place onions and carrots in slow cooker. Place corned beef on top of vegetables. Add enough water to cover meat. Cook on high setting 1 hour.

Then, either cook 10-12 hours on low setting or 5-6 hours on high. Cabbage wedges may be added on top of beef 3 hours before completion of cooking time. Yield: 6 servings

Golden Eagles bomb Cochise by 27

CSI faces second-ranked Southeastern today

By Kevin Hall
Times-News writer

HUTCHINSON, Kan. – On the biggest stage in junior college basketball, the College of Southern Idaho made a grand entrance.

Facing Texas' Cochise County College in the first round of the 53rd annual National Junior College Athletic Association men's national basketball tournament, the Golden Eagles decimated the Apaches, 85-58.

Now, Southern Idaho (29-5) faces pre-tournament favorite No. 2 Southeastern Community College (31-4) out of West Burlington, Iowa. The Blackhawks downed Northeast Mississippi Community College, 74-68.

How about a white flag? Because Cochise was waving theirs at the 16:35 mark of the first half. Down 10-0 at that point, the Apaches lost leading scorer Tim Smith for the tournament when Smith went down in a heap with CSI's Uche Okafor after both players got tangled up going for a rebound.

Okafor stood up, but Smith remained down, writhing in pain as his left foot grotesquely hung to one side. Initially thought to be broken, Smith's ankle was later diagnosed as a severe dislocation.

Already humbled by their inability to score, Smith's injury demoralized the smaller Apaches, who had just three players taller than 6-foot-5. Before they would score, CSI tacked on another quick five points on a Kenny Brunner three-pointer and a Jerry Dupree baby hook from the baseline to push the shutout to 15-0.

Cochise finally got on the board at the 13:09 mark, but it wasn't easy. In fact, it was the final put-back of five missed tips. The bucket broke a streak of 16 missed shots for the Apaches, who hit a miserable 27 percent in the first half on 8-for-30 shooting. Cochise finished the game at 32 percent (18-for-56).

Peter Okwalinga had 13 points to lead Cochise, while Kevin Henry added 12 for the Apaches, who play an 11 a.m. loser-out game Thursday against Northeast Mississippi.

The stars are out in Kansas

By Kevin Hall
Times-News writer

HUTCHINSON, Kan. – Contrary to most beliefs, the real stars here at nationals are not in uniforms, they're in suits and ties watching the games. Along with a host of NBA scouts with clipboards, a celebrated list of college basketball dignitaries was on hand scouting before Thursday's tip-off of the NCAA tournament. Among the coaches spotted: Purdue assistant and former CSI head coach Jim Thrash, Georgia State's Lefty Driesell, former UCLA and Rhode Island head coach Jim Harrick, now at Georgia, Mick Cronin, an assistant under Bob Huggins at Cincinnati, Mark Godfried from Alabama and Florida State's Steve Robinson. ... Also in attendance is San Diego State University coach Steve Fisher. Rumored to be scouting none other than the College of Southern Idaho's own Kenny Brunner, Fisher confirmed that Brunner was on his list. Marvin Manzies, one of Fisher's assistants at SDSU, was a former coach of Brunner's at Santa Monica College. ... CSI head coach Derek Zeck was the subject of a feature by the local Hutchinson News on Tuesday. The article focused on the Kansas native's return to his home state, and offered the headline: “CSI's Zeck comes home to Kansas.” Zeck was quoted as saying, “It's great to be back in Kansas. ... I'm going to have so many relatives and friends here. But for this team, it's been our goal to be here all along.” ... CSI is the No. 1 team in

Bruins slug Bobcats 24-6

By Matt Peterson
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS – Scoring runs never looked so easy.

Tallying 20 runs in the second-inning alone, the Twin Falls baseball team breezed to a 24-6 blowout of Burley in both teams' Region III opener Tuesday in Twin Falls.

“That's kind of what they call home field advantage. We had a lot of balls drop (today),” said Twin Falls head coach Mike Federico, whose team sent 25 men to the plate in the game's decisive second inning. “(But) we were putting the bat on the ball.”

No kidding. The Bruins (3-0 overall, 1-0 conference) pounded out 20 hits in just four offensive innings Tuesday, including 15 base knocks in the second.

From the looks of the Bruins' early-season offense, buzzards and merry go-rounds might be the only things capable of making circles with this year's team, which has toured the base paths 70 times in just 13 innings of play.

The Bruins scored 29 against Rigby and 17 against Madison in their season openers last Saturday.

Momentum shifted quickly as the Bruins started the inning with three straight singles, the first of which came off the bat of designated hitter Jeremy Sudik. Six hits and nine runs later, Twin Falls chased Burley starter Joe Peterson.

His replacement, left-handed Dallas Bristol, was equally ineffective against the Bruins' bats, however, as Twin Falls pounded out 11 more runs in the inning. All nine Twin Falls starters scored in the inning and all but two got three at-bats in the frame.

Federico said his team's use of wood bats in practices and scrimmages has contributed to the increased run production.

“I think it has made our kids better hitters,” Federico said.

Senior Bobby Trivitt yielded six runs on four hits in two and two-thirds innings to earn the victory. He walked five and struck out five. Senior Tyler Warburton closed out the game for Twin Falls with two and one-third scoreless innings.

Peterson gave up 11 runs on 10 hits and struck out four for the Bobcats.

“Pitching is something that will get better for us as the year goes on,” said Harr, whose team lost eight starters to graduation, including top hurlers Brett Dayley and Kyler Redder.

Senior Zach Gregersen went 3-for-3 with five RBIs and four runs scored to lead the Bruins, while left fielder Richie Evans went 3-for-3 with one RBI and two runs scored for Burley.

Twin Falls second baseman Jonas Brady gets high fives from his teammates after scoring during Tuesday afternoon's game against Burley. Brady went 1-for-2 with three walks and three runs scored as the Bruins used a 20-run second inning to beat Burley 24-6.

Elliot comes back, Spurs rout Hawks

The Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO – Sean Elliott completed his comeback to the NBA on Tuesday, returning to play for San Antonio seven months after a kidney transplant as the Spurs defeated Atlanta 94-79.

Elliott, who played 12 minutes and shot 1-for-3 from the field, missed a 22-foot jumper and a layup in the third quarter. Then, with a quick step around defender Roshown McLeod, he brought wildly cheering Alamodome fans to their feet with a dramatic dunk five minutes into the period.

More NBA - D3

He drove the lane and slammed the ball down with his right hand. Spurs teammate Mario Elie joined in the applause, clapping as he ran back down the court. Hawks center Dikembe Mutombo simply smiled.

Elliott's basket sparked a 6-0 scoring scoring spurt for San Antonio, though Atlanta quickly recovered and pulled ahead 66-64 by the end of the third.

The score remained close as the fourth quarter got under way, but the Spurs moved ahead 76-75 on a basket by David Robinson with 7:21 left to play. Robinson followed by scoring the next five points, upping San Antonio's edge to 81-75 with 3:40 remaining.

Sean Elliott

As the final seconds of the game clocked ticked away, the fans shouted, “We want Sean! We want Sean!” Elliott became the first pro athlete in a major sport to return to competition after a kidney transplant.

Although Spurs coach Gregg Popovich had been saying he would use Elliott as a reserve, he started at small forward and played the first five minutes, grabbing a defensive rebound and recording one assist.

On the Spurs' first possession, he slipped slightly as he passed to Johnson. Later on, he fell again as he drew rough contact from Mutombo under the Spurs' basket.

But Elliott seemed unfazed and played on until he was replaced by Jerome Kersey. Elliott started the third quarter, playing seven minutes that period.

Elliott, 32, now in his 11th season, received a kidney from his older brother Noel in transplant surgery Aug. 16. He said from the start he hoped to resume his basketball career.

Elliott wanted to make his comeback at a home game in front of family, friends, his doctors and San Antonio fans. A total of 26,708 spectators showed up to watch, filling some upper sections of the Alamodome.

Bruin softball nips Burley in home opener

The Times-News

TWIN FALLS – A five-run sixth inning sparked the Twin Falls softball team to a 7-6 victory over Burley in Region III action Tuesday at Twin Falls.

The Bobcats led 6-1 entering the home half of the sixth inning, but Twin Falls put together six consecutive hits, four of them for extra bases, to start the inning.

“It's good to get that first win under your belt,” said Twin Falls head coach Nick Baumert. “I felt like eventually we'd break through. A lot of (our hits) were right at people. ... I think we just stayed after it.”

Guzman finished 2-for-3 with one RBI and a run scored, while senior Somer Hayes pitched two scoreless innings of relief for the victory.

Burley was led by catcher Kari Hadden, who singled three times and scored once.

“We played real well for five innings,” said Burley head coach Vic Jackman. “I think the youth of our team caught us. We haven't had the ball hit at us like that.”

Burley hosts Skyline Friday.

NOME, Alaska – Montana musher Doug Swingley successfully defended his title Tuesday in the 1,100-mile Iditarod Trail Sled Dog Race, breaking his record by more than an hour and joining an elite group of Alaskan mushers.

Paul Gebhardt of Kasilof followed more than five hours later to take second place. By driving his team first across the finish line in this Gold Rush town, Swingley, of Lincoln, Mont., won $60,000 of a record $525,000 purse and a new pickup truck worth more than $37,000. Gebhardt won $52,500. Race money was to be awarded to the first 30 finishers. Swingley is the only non-Alaskan ever to win the race over its 28 years.

Rocker returns to hill in Braves' spring game

KISSIMMEE, Fla. – One youngster carried a sign. Other Atlanta Braves fans showed their support for John Rocker with a standing ovation.

In his first action since the World Series – and his controversial magazine interview – the reliever pitched a perfect ninth inning Tuesday night to finish the Braves' 4-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

NBA gives ground on mandatory mike policy

Following an outcry of protests from coaches around the league, a temporary compromise was reached Tuesday between the commissioner's office and the coaches' association, giving coaches who do not wish to wear a wireless clip-on microphone a new option – having a boom microphone placed near their bench.

QB Steve Young gets married in Hawaii

KAILUA-KONA, Hawaii – San Francisco 49ers quarterback Steve Young's future on the playing field may be in question, but his life off the field is set.

On Tuesday, Young married former model Barbara Graham, who now works in public relations in Phoenix. The two married in a small, private ceremony at a Mormon temple in Hawaii. About 90 people, including 49ers coach Steve Mariucci, were invited to a reception afterward.

INDIAN WELLS, Calif. – Lindsay Davenport didn't let temperatures in the mid 90s bother her in an easy 6-2, 6-1 victory Tuesday over Conchita Martinez in a quarterfinal match at the Tennis Masters Series.

Davenport, seeded second, needed just 62 minutes to move into the semifinals against 17-year-old Russian Elena Dementieva, a surprise 6-4, 6-1 winner over Chanda Rubin.

By contrast, CSI hit on 20 of 34 tries from the floor in the first half (59 percent), finishing at 48 percent (36-for-75).

CSI held first-half leads of 22-4, 30-8 and 41-18. The deficit eventually topped 32 points at 71-39 with 8:48 left in the game.

"I thought our rotation and our ball pressure was very good," Zeck said. "This was a good way to get started."

Brunner credited the Golden Eagles' scouting for their stellar defensive showing, which forced 21 Apache turnovers.

"We knew their tendencies, so it was a little bit easier to defend them," he said. "I give credit to my teammates who did an excellent job putting pressure on them. We've got the big fellas back there ready to knock it away ... we just contained them, got to the ball, pressured them and just played good team defense."

Kendall Minor, who came off the bench to drain five three-pointers, had a game-high 17 points for the Golden Eagles. Brunner chipped in 15 and Cardell Butler had 14.

The Golden Eagles won even with leading scorer and Region 18 Most Valuable Player Matt Siebrandt having a mediocre game. Siebrandt tallied four points on only four shot attempts and grabbed three rebounds.

Asked how difficult it was to stay motivated with a 30-point lead, Butler said it didn't matter what the lead was since this is the national tournament.

"This team just stayed focused and stayed within our offense and our defense," he said. "We just did what we had to do to win."

That included several high-flying, alley-oop slam dunks for the highlight reel that came at the expense of the Apaches' porous zone defense.

"We didn't step it up," said Cochise head coach Jerry Carrillo. "And CSI is just too good of a team for us to play from behind. We just were frustrated – they were back picking the zone and we didn't make the adjustments."

Cochise guard Jay Collins, who had 11 points, said his team just didn't show up ready to play.

"We came out flat, got behind early and we didn't come to play in the first 20 minutes," he said.

Carrillo added that his team played tentative.

"We didn't compete when we went down," he said. "And we were playing against one of the best five teams in the country. Credit CSI for coming prepared."

Huskies highlight the All-American team

The Associated Press

Connecticut, No. 1 in the women's rankings, is No. 1 in All-Americans as well.

Connecticut's Shea Ralph and Svetlana Abrosimova became the third pair of teammates to make the first team in The Associated Press All-America selections.

Tennessee had the leading vote getter for the third straight year, this time Tamika Catchings.

The versatile trio was joined on the first team by Georgia's Kelly Miller, who finished second in the voting by a national media panel, and Notre Dame's Ruth Riley. All five first-teamers are juniors.

"The best thing our team has going for us is we have two outstanding players on the wings who make us very difficult to guard," Connecticut coach Geno Auriemma said. "Shea and Svet complement each other on the court and bring out the best in each other."

Pilots roll to doubleheader sweep at home

The Times-News

GLENNS FERRY – Propelled by outstanding pitching, the Glenns Ferry Pilots took a pair of baseball contests from the Bulldogs on Tuesday in their season debut.

Ryan Simons and Jeremy Bergh combined for a one-hit shutout in the 8-0 early game, allowing the sole hit in the third inning.

In the 6-2 nightcap, Kimberly heated up for six hits to the Pilots' seven, but it was not enough.

Simons earned the first-game win, while Juan Gutierrez picked up the nightcap decision. Bergh again pitched relief in the second game, where Ryan Simons was 2-for-3 with a double and Zach Simons was 2-for-2.

BUHL – The Buhl Indians dominated the Wendell Trojans in both teams' openers Tuesday.

TJ Cline started Buhl off with a home run in the first, followed by Cody Owen's triple and Seth Mathews' double in the second. After that, a 14-run third was too much for the Trojans.

"We were really happy with our pitchers," said Buhl assistant coach Lee Cline. "We didn't have one walk the whole game."

The Indian pitchers struck out nine Trojans, Rietkerk striking out five and Pomrenke striking out four. Wendell played the Buhl JV team later, losing 16-5.

GLENNS FERRY – The Pilots swept a season-opening home opener from visiting Kimberly on Tuesday, racking up 15 hits in the early game and another 10 in the run-rule nightcap.

"I was pretty pleased with how well we played," said Glenns Ferry coach Kelli McHone. "But I was impressed with how well Kimberly did. I thought they did a good job."

Susi Barroso went 4-for-4 in the first game with 2 RBIs, Dorys Gutierrez was 2-for-2, Megan Conrad was 2-for-4 and Amy Arellano went 2-for-3. Candace Laib went three innings for the win for the Pilots, with Andrea Johnson pitching four innings in relief.

"It probably would have ended sooner, but we had a few mental errors," McHone said.

In the later game, Arellano went the entire contest on the mound, giving up a scattered six hits for the decision. Conrad was 2-for-3 with an RBI, and Barroso was 2-for-5.

The Pilots (2-0) play Thursday at Nampa Christian, then return home Saturday to host Wendell.

Raptors stay hot against Warriors

TORONTO (AP) – Vince Carter scored 23 points, including 11 in the fourth quarter after returning from a sprained left ankle, as the Toronto Raptors dealt the Golden State Warriors their seventh straight loss, 85-78, on Tuesday night.

Tracy McGrady added 20 points and Kevin Willis had 12 points and 15 rebounds for the Raptors, who have won nine of 10.

Carter got tangled up with teammate Charles Oakley midway through the third quarter. He immediately fell to the floor and stayed there for three minutes before a trainer and two teammates helped him off the court.

He returned to a huge ovation at the start of the fourth quarter, with the Raptors down by five. Toronto outscored the Warriors 29-17 in the quarter.

ORLANDO, Fla. – Monty Williams scored 19 points and Ron Mercer added 18 in his return from a five-game. Five players scored in double figures for Orlando, which has won four of five games.

Mercer missed four games with an ankle sprain and then was suspended by the NBA for a game for fighting with former teammate George McCloud on Saturday. Washington reserve Lamond Murray had 26 points.

NBA

Heat 108, Bucks 104

MIAMI – The Heat, sparked by first-time starter Bruce Bowen's two 3-pointers, tied a franchise record with their 12th straight home victory. Clarence Weatherspoon scored all 11 of his points in the fourth quarter.

76ers 98, Cavaliers 97, OT

CLEVELAND – Cleveland's Lamond Murray missed an off-balance 15-footer just before the overtime buzzer and Allen Iverson scored 28 points on a dreadful shooting night.

Iverson went just 10-for-29 from the field, but scored four points in OT as the Sixers completed a four-game sweep of the Cavs this season. Aaron McKie scored 20 points and made three huge 3-pointers, and George Lynch added 15 points and 10 rebounds for Philadelphia.

Knicks 91, Rockets 85

NEW YORK (AP) – Latrell Sprewell scored 27 points and Marcus Camby returned from the injured list for New York. Camby was activated after missing more than five weeks with a strained knee ligament.

Team doctor Norman Scott advised Camby to rest the knee for a couple more days after it swelled following the team's morning shootaround, but Camby ignored the advice. He had two points and two rebounds in 15 minutes.

Former USOC official pleads guilty

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) – A former U.S. Olympic Committee official's guilty plea to tax fraud related to a pair of consulting agreements appears to have snared Rome's Olympic bid in the Salt Lake bribery scandal.

Alfredo La Mont, the former USOC director of international affairs, pleaded guilty Tuesday to cheating on his taxes by failing to report income.

La Mont created a sham company to hide a consulting agreement with Salt Lake's bid officials and also failed to pay taxes on $40,000 he received in 1997 from Rome's bid committee.

Alfredo La Mont

La Mont is the first Olympic official charged in the scandal. He was forced to resign as the USOC senior director of international relations and protocol in January 1999 after his Salt Lake consulting deal became known.

He agreed to plead to the two felony counts of tax fraud and help the Justice Department in its investigation, which officials say should wrap up within a year.

In reference to the first charge, La Mont told U.S. Magistrate Ronald Boyce that he conspired with two Salt Lake bid officials to be paid for consulting work and to hide those payments.

The bid officials were not named, but former Salt Lake bid committee chief administrator Craig Peterson signed a contract with Citius Inc., La Mont's fake consulting company. Peterson left the Salt Lake Organizing Committee in 1996. J. J. Bullock, Peterson's attorney, wold not comment.

On the second charge, La Mont admitted that he did not pay taxes on income from Rome bid officials.

Bourque nears 400 career goals

DENVER (AP) – Ray Bourque scored his 398th career goal and Joe Sakic added a goal as the Colorado Avalanche beat the Anaheim Mighty Ducks 4-2 Tuesday night for their sixth straight victory.

Bourque scored his third goal for the Avalanche, 4-0 since the March 6th trade that brought the veteran defenseman to Colorado from Boston

Lightning 4, Canadiens 3

MONTREAL – Fredrik Modin scored twice and Vincent Lecavalier added his 20th goal as Tampa Bay ended a seven-game losing streak with a victory over Montreal.

Trevor Linden, who scored an early goal, broke two ribs and will miss the rest of the season for the Canadiens, locked in a seventh-place tie with Pittsburgh. Montreal is just one point ahead of Carolina and the New York Rangers.

Sergei Zholtok and Turner Stevenson also scored for Montreal. Steve Martins put Tampa Bay ahead 1-0.

NHL

Red Wings 3, Predators 2, OT

DETROIT – Brendan Shanahan scored his second goal of the game 4:10 into overtime, lifting Detroit over Nashville.

Sergei Fedorov also scored for the Red Wings, who moved within two points of idle St. Louis for first place in the Central Division. Detroit, on a season-best eight-game unbeaten streak (6-0-2) also got three assists from Nicklas Lidstrom and two from Tomas Holmstrom.

AOL, Sears form marketing alliance

DULLES, Va. – America Online Inc., the world's biggest Internet services provider, and Sears, Roebuck & Co., the second-biggest U.S. retailer, said Tuesday they have entered into an alliance to market each other's goods and services.

Under the agreement, AOL's interactive products and services will be marketed to Sears customers nationwide, including those in the Magic Valley, while Sears merchandise and services will be marketed to AOL members as well as visitors to the company's other Web-based brands, such as CompuServe, Netscape Netcenter and Digital City.

Dulles, Va.-based AOL will be Sears' preferred online service provider and develop a special co-branded edition of AOL with links to Sears. The new service is expected to be launched in the second half of this year.

Sears customers will also have the option of paying their monthly AOL subscriptions with their Sears credit card. In addition, AOL plans to develop a co-branded Instant Messenger service to give customers real-time communications with Sears' customer service departments.

The companies said the alliance also includes plans to market and sell broadband Internet access as the high-speed market develops.

Sears, based in Hoffman Estates, Ill., said it will also promote AOL and its in-store offerings in its print and television advertising.

Radio One will buy a dozen stations from Clear Channel

NEW YORK – Radio One Inc. said this week it has agreed to buy twelve radio stations from Clear Channel Communications Inc. for about $1.3 billion, as the second-largest U.S. radio broadcaster continues divesting to gain regulatory approval for its purchase of AMFM Inc.

Clear Channel, which is based in San Antonio, Texas, already agreed March 6 to sell 72 of its radio stations for an estimated $2.8 billion, spinning off its first wave of stations. None of its Magic Valley radio stations are among the announced sales.

Clear Channel said the proposed sales are contingent upon the closing of its AMFM acquisition, which will give it a total of 830 radio stations.

Micronpc.com reaches pact with Best Buy

NAMPA – Micron Electronics has reached an agreement with Minneapolis-based Best Buy Co. Inc. that will allow Micron to sell its computers through retail kiosks.

Micronpc.com says consumers will gain access to the latest technology and will be able to select, personalize and order their computers direct from micronpc.com through in-store kiosks in all Best Buy stores.

The company says the retail-direct model will still provide local support and service.

The partnership is expected to launch nationwide in all 357 Best Buy stores by mid-spring.

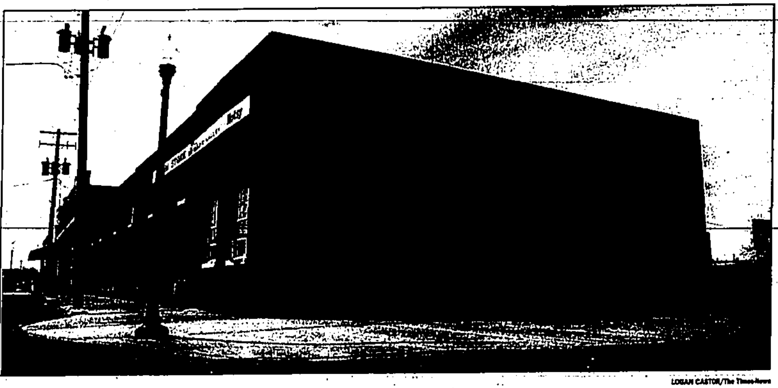
Old Towne deal in works



LOGAN CASTOR/The Times-News

Twin Falls' Urban Renewal Agency is looking to trade this building in Old Towne for property along Minidoka Avenue, near growing private developments in the city's old warehouse district. A railroad company has proposed making such a deal.

Railroad company proposes property trade

By Virginia S. Hutchins

TWIN FALLS – A railroad company is proposing to trade 1.49 acres to a city agency in exchange for a brick building in Old Towne – a deal that could boost parking supply in the redeveloping area.

That appears to be just what the agency asked for.

Watco Companies Inc.'s proposal is a reply to the city Urban Renewal Agency's published request for developers willing to trade about 1.5 acres along Minidoka Avenue not owned by the agency, for the building that once housed the Hotsy Steam Store of Magic Valley Inc. at 156 Fourth Ave. S. in Twin Falls.

Greg McDonald of McDonald Insurance donated the Hotsy property to Urban Renewal in late 1998, said Dave McAlindin, Urban Renewal's executive director and the city's economic development director.

Urban Renewal will accept proposals until the beginning of April, after which it can accept, reject or further negotiate any deal offered.

The agency's idea, McAlindin said, is to provide off-street parking for current and future developments in the old warehouse district. For that, it could be willing to buy the Hotsy property.

"It's always been our intent to encourage private investment," he said, and turning over the Hotsy building to a developer is an excellent opportunity to do that.

But Watco, the parent of Eastern Idaho Railroad, hasn't elaborated on any plans for the Hotsy building.

"It is with great civic pride that we would be honored to be able to make such a transaction, knowing we would be benefiting the people of Twin Falls with a sizable tract of land adjoining the developing 'old warehouse district,' as well as adding value to our own holdings with such a building as the 'Hotsy,'" John T. Brown wrote in a letter to McAlindin this month.

"It think this potentially could be an excellent trade," McAlindin said.

It would provide Urban Renewal with much needed off-street parking and an opportunity to install curbs and gutters along the south side of Minidoka. And it would give the agency a chance to landscape a highly visible entrance to Old Towne, he said.

Downtown, Old Towne move closer to unification

By Rachel Denny
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS – Almost everyone at the first joint meeting of the Historic Downtown and Old Towne business improvement districts Tuesday agreed unification is necessary for those redeveloping areas of Twin Falls, and progress is being made toward just that.

Members from both boards said there were issues common to each district, but many board members also had reservations about combining the boards entirely.

"We're not thinking downtown vs. Old Towne," Old Towne BID Chairman Dave Woodhead said. "We are thinking merchants vs. property owners."

Currently the downtown BID assesses its membership fees based on building occupants, while Old Towne assesses fees based on property ownership. That makes the overall mission of each district different, some board members say.

Finding a way to solve issues relevant to both merchants and property owners – while not bothering one or the other group with things it is not interested in – is a major issue, Old Towne BID board member Steve Soran said.

"I think there's a lot of common ground," he said. "But I have some reservations because what the downtown area needs isn't what the Old Towne area needs. We need to be separate enough to work on our own problems."

Members of the two boards are looking at creating a number of districts and having elected representatives from each dis-

Rate hike: U S West lines will be a bit more costly

The Times-News

TWIN FALLS – Starting April 1, look for a small increase in your U S West phone bill.

The Idaho Public Utilities Commission has approved a local-exchange rate increase for most of the company's customers in Idaho, U S West said.

Monthly rates for customers in these Magic Valley exchanges will increase by 14 cents per line on April 1: Bliss, Buhl, Castleford, Dietrich, Eden-Hazelton, Glenns Ferry, Gooding, Hagerman, Jerome, Kimberly, Mountain Home, Murtaugh, Shoshone, Twin Falls and Wendell.

The rate hike is necessary to cover U S West's costs in expanding local calling areas throughout Idaho, the company said, citing expansions to its eastern Idaho and Treasure Valley local calling regions.

The rate increase will apply to all residence and business, flat and measured lines and trunks.

"For customers who make few outgoing local calls and wish to lessen the effects of the rate increase, measured service is an economical alternative to flat service," U S West said in a letter to customers. "Until June 1, 2000, customers in the exchanges listed above (those affected by the hike) may switch between flat and measured service without paying a conversion charge."

Also, it said, residential customers who meet certain income-related criteria can qualify for substantially reduced rates under the Idaho Telephone Service Assistance Plan.

Albertson's reports rise in sales

Figures for quarter increase 5.7 percent

The Times-News

BOISE – Albertson's Inc., one of the nation's largest food and drug retailers, Tuesday reported sales for the 14-week quarter ended Feb. 3 of $9.9 billion, an increase of 5.7 percent over the 13 weeks last year.

Total sales for the quarter increased 4.5 percent when compared on a 13-week basis with the same quarter last year and excluding sales from divested stores from both quarters, said Boise-based Albertson's, which has grocery stores in Twin Falls and Burley. On a comparable 14-week basis, identical store sales increased 2.4 percent and comparable store sales – which include replacement stores – increased 2.8 percent.

Operating profit before merger-related costs for the 14-week quarter increased 5.5 percent to $617 million, the company said. Net earnings before merger-related costs were $309 million. Diluted earnings per share before merger costs were 73 cents.

Merger-related costs for the quarter amounted to $76 million ($46 million after tax or 11 cents per basic and diluted share). Including all merger costs, the company reported net earnings of $264 million, or 62 cents per basic and diluted share for the quarter.

"We continue to make progress on all fronts. Our merger-related costs are in line with our original estimates," said A. Craig Olson, executive vice president and chief financial officer. "However, the synergies, or cost savings, of $60 million achieved this quarter have exceeded our expectations by $35 million, and we'll invest additional savings back into increasing sales and building a stronger base for the future."

Annual sales for the 53-week year ended Feb. 3 reached $37.5 billion, an increase of 4.5 percent over the 52 weeks last year. Total sales for the year increased 5.4 percent when compared on a 52-week basis with the prior year and excluding sales from divested stores from both years, Albertson's said.

Operating profit before merger-related costs and one-time charges for the year increased 3.1 percent to $1.9 billion. Net earnings before merger costs and one-time charges increased to $955 million.

Merger and one-time costs for the year amounted to $720 million ($551 million after tax or $1.30 per basic and diluted share). One-time costs include a $37 million charge for proposed lawsuit settlement costs. Consistent with prior estimates, the company expects to incur additional after-tax merger-related costs of about $157 mil-

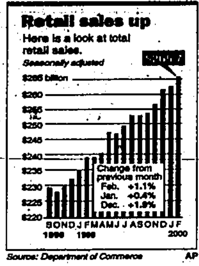
Retail sales rise unabated by interest rates

WASHINGTON (AP) – Americans, unfazed by rising interest rates and higher gasoline prices, snapped up cars, clothing and groceries in February and caused retail sales to jump by 1.1 percent, the Commerce Department reported Tuesday.

Economists said this fresh evidence of a strong economy justifies another interest rate boost by the Federal Reserve next week to slow things down a bit and prevent an outbreak of inflation.

With plentiful jobs, low inflation and rising incomes, Americans are feeling wealthy and in the buying mood, economists said.

"The buying binge reflects the power of full employment," said Richard Yamarone, an economist with Argus Research Corp. "People have jobs and that's the real confidence booster. It makes people want to dig into their pockets and spend."



Source: Department of Commerce AP

Retail sales rose to a seasonally adjusted $265.7 billion last month, the Commerce Department said. The 1.1 percent jump in sales marked the biggest gain since December and was slightly stronger than many analysts were predicting.

On Wall Street, stocks were not significantly affected by the latest evidence that the economy continues to grow rapidly. The Dow Jones stock average was down more than 17 points around noon in response to a big acquisition by Alcoa.

Economists said that consumers' confidence about their jobs and income prospects more than outweighed worries about higher interest rates and rapidly rising crude oil prices that has sent gasoline costs surging – factors that could have caused consumers to temper their spending last month.

Sales of new cars and trucks rose a solid 1.4 percent in February. The auto industry reported a record 17 million cars and light trucks sold in 1999 and is projecting robust sales for this year.

"The strength in car and truck sales, more than just about anything else, shows that higher gasoline prices are not about to put the brakes on consumer spending," said First Union economist Mark Vitner.

Gasoline station sales rose by a big 4.3 percent in February, reflecting higher prices at the pump. That was the largest jump since April.

Consumer spending, which accounts for two-thirds of all economic activity, is the locomotive of the speeding economy, which grew by a breakneck 6.9 percent annual rate in the last three months of 1999. Tuesday's report showed that consumers continue to spend freely, thus fueling economic growth.

Given that, most analysts expect Fed policy-makers to push interest rates higher when they meet next week in an effort to slow growth and keep inflation from escalating.

Nasdaq tumbles again, dragging Dow down too

NEW YORK (AP) – The Nasdaq composite index sustained its second-worst point drop in history Tuesday, as losses for pacesetting biotechnology companies spilled over to a broad range of stocks.

The Nasdaq fell 200.61, or 4.1 percent, to close at 4,706.63. With Monday's 141-point loss, the Nasdaq has shed 6.8 percent in two sessions; Tuesday's drop was second only to a 229.46-point slide on Jan. 4.

The Dow Jones industrials followed the Nasdaq, giving up early gains and closing down 135.89 at 9,811.24. Selling pressure accelerated in the final half-hour of trading.

Broader market measures also surrendered early gains to finish lower. The Standard & Poor's 500 fell 24.47 to 1,359.15 and the Russell 2000 index of smaller companies plunged 17.15 to 572.99.

Biotech stocks plunged, pulling the rest of the Nasdaq, after the United States and Britain agreed to openly share data from a project to decode the human genetic pattern.

Incyte Pharmaceuticals skidded 53.5 to 143.5 and Human Genome Sciences fell 29 3/64. PE Corp.'s Celera Genomics tumbled 47 to 142 on the NYSE.

Analysts said that while some companies will struggle to find other sources of revenue, most biotechnology business are involved in a wide range of projects and won't be adversely affected by the decision.

"This is a bit of an overreaction," said Dr. Joseph Zammit-Lucia, president of Cambridge Pharma Consultancy. "It's a little bit of correction-in a frothy market."

Downtown

trict serve on a main board that would focus on issues relevant to both areas. That way each district would be represented and would have a say, downtown BID Chairman Ron Thompson said.

In addition to the main board would be two separate advisory committees, each focusing on items relating only to an individual district. The districts would have to retain separate budgets.

Some board members suggested hiring a facilitator to work out issues the two groups have; others suggested talking to members of each district and making a list of each area's concerns to bring back to the combined board.

"We need to go to other jurisdictions and talk to people," Soran said. "We also need a timeline on how long we're going to play around with unification."

If the two areas do not unify, both groups need to look at different ways to run their organizations, downtown BID member Richard Crowley said.

"If we are two different boards we need two different (executive) directors," he said. "But I think we can blend our strengths."

Since most people already view the area as one, the smart thing is to combine – in one view.

"People don't view us as downtown and Old Towne," Thompson said. "We've made this separation of people and districts."

The two boards will meet at 8:30 a.m. March 23 to discuss unification further.

In other business Tuesday, the BIDs discussed removing the fountain on Main Avenue. The fountain is a hindrance to the area because it blocks traffic to and from downtown and Old Towne, some board members said.

"I think if you go back to the history of the fountain it hasn't worked well," Old Towne BID Vice Chairman Jim Vickers said. "It blocks the traffic. It's an absolute blockage in my mind."

"Nothing will combine downtown and Old Towne more than eliminating that (fountain)," added downtown BID Secretary Steve Garner.

Other board members disagreed the fountain has hurt the area and said it is not a top priority.

"It has not been a complete failure," Crowley said. "It has been the center of activity."

In addition to removal of the fountain to hasten traffic through the two areas, the boards discussed removing the left-hand-turn restrictions on the intersection of Main Avenue and Shoshone Street.

Bank of America president promises to transform bank

Bridge News

PHOENIX – After spending the past 15 years expanding through acquisitions, Bank of America Corp. is focusing inward, president and chief operating officer Kenneth Lewis said. The goal now isn't getting bigger – it's getting better.

"We're going to transform the company. That's how dramatically different things will be," Lewis told reporters following a presentation at the American Banker's Retail Financial Services conference in Phoenix.

"Now when I say that, I take great pride in the set of circumstances and philosophy that got us here. After all, we're still standing. But it's a new day. We have to change."

The Charlotte-based bank with a handful of Magic Valley branches became the country's largest commercial bank in the 1998 merger of BankAmerica and NationsBank, creating a franchise with branches stretching from the Southeast, across the sunbelt to the Pacific Coast. Yet advances in technology and changing consumer preferences now challenge the viability of traditional corporate and retail banks, even the biggest.

Lewis, who analysts predict could be named chief executive as soon as next month, said BofA must build on businesses where its strong and either bolster weaker units or cast them off.

"You'll see us very focused on businesses that aren't meeting financial objectives," Lewis said. "First we'll give them a lot of help to see if they can meet our objectives. If not, we'll shed them. You will see that kind of discipline."

As an example, Lewis said some consumer finance businesses are struggling to meet the bank's internal targets while "two other" unidentified businesses are also subject to review.

In the new era of banking, financial firms are encouraged to use computer systems teeming with customer information to measure the costs and returns generated by every customer and every transaction. Lewis said beyond traditional financial data, BofA will gauge such things as customer satisfaction and retention, and even delve into employee satisfaction and retention.

On the increased investment front, BofA is spending heavily to shore up its private client services for the rich. Last year that business grew by 20-25 percent, he said, but "we have lot of market share to gain."

The bank is opening 10 new offices in California this year, he said. The bank's securities arm, Banc of America Securities, is in the middle of a hiring spree with plans to add more than a hundred M&A advisors, investment bankers and equities underwriting professionals.

Another area for investment is the bank's Internet businesses. BofA, particularly that part represented by the old NationsBank, had fallen behind regional bank rivals such as Wells Fargo, Chase Manhattan, Citigroup and First Union in developing Internet-related businesses

Lewis expects that the sheer size of the bank, with some two million business customers and 30 million consumers, can be used to forge partnerships that will let it catch up. Management has also opened its pocketbook for new investments.

"We're going to make side bets on a lot of things," Lewis said, acknowledging no bank can say for sure which technology or what firm provides the key to future success. BofA in recent months has acquired a 5 percent stake in E-Loan, an Internet mortgage broker, and famously spent $3 million to acquire the Internet domain name loans.com.

We're going to make any number of investments in technology companies that are strategic to us or provide some service for us," Lewis said.

The bank's Strategic Technology Group has invested about $100 million in technology companies with an eye toward developing new applications. BofA also has a private equity arm, Principal Investing Group, which has some $5 billion invested in funds and individual stocks.

Albertson's

Both quarterly and annual results reflect the combined operations of Albertson's and American Stores Co. The merger is being accounted for as a pooling of interests. Therefore, all prior-year comparisons include both Albertson's and American Stores as if they had always been one company.

"I'm pleased to report that the fourth quarter lived up to our expectations," said Gary Michael, chairman and chief executive officer. "We placed our emphasis on sales, and we exceeded our goals. We also placed a lot of emphasis on restoring our tracking and projection systems – especially in California – and we've made significant progress.

"Our trends throughout the company were better, and several of our regions had record quarters. Even with the merger issues this year, we were able to achieve earnings, before merger-related costs, that were ahead of a year ago."

NOTICE OF FUNDING AVAILABILITY (NOFA)
Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act Title IV
Emergency Shelter Grant Program
2000 Funding Cycle

Idaho Housing and Finance Association (IHFA) is accepting applications for Emergency Shelter Grant Program Funds (ESG) as authorized by Title IV of the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act. The funds will be distributed on a competitive basis to eligible applicants.

The State of Idaho will receive $415,000 in Emergency Shelter Grant funds for the 2000 fiscal year.

Eligible activities under the ESG regulations are

➢ Essential services provided in conjunction with emergency shelters
➢ Operations and/or maintenance of emergency shelters
➢ Homeless prevention

IHFA will set aside 10% of the available ESG funds for homeless prevention activities and 30% for essential services. Homeless prevention funds will be accessible to all selected grantees and will not be reflected in the grantee's original ESG award. If the full set aside for essential services is not awarded for those purposes, the remaining funds will be utilized for other eligible activities. Applicants requesting funding for rehabilitation/renovation/conversion projects must complete an environmental review before funding can be awarded or obligated.

To request an application or receive technical assistance, please contact Rouchelle Abrahamsom at 331-4716. Applications are available on 3.5 inch diskettes in Microsoft® Word 97 format, as a hard copy, or you may download the application kit at www.ihfa.org/grants.html

Applications must be received no later than 5:00 PM (MST), Monday, May 1, 2000 at:

NOTICE OF SALE

The Personal Representative of the Estates of Irvin Earl Carpenter and Thelma Carpenter will sell the following property of the Estates located at 1634 A East Road, Jerome, Idaho, about 8 miles north of Eden:

Township 8 South, Range 19 East of the Boise Meridian, Jerome County, Idaho.

➢ Approximately 132 acres located in tax 2 of Track B of Section 14
➢ Approximately 21 acres located in tax 1 of Track B, Track E of Section 14
➢ Approximately 300 acres located in Section 23: Track E, N½ SW¼, SWNE, NWSE
➢ Excepting therefrom approximately 1.7 acres reserved as a home site.
➢ Subject to all zoning laws and restrictions of Jerome County, easements and rights of way of record and accruing property taxes.

TIME AND PLACE AND TYPE OF SALE: The sale will be by auction to the highest bidder. Bids will be opened on Tuesday, March 28, 2000 at 2:00 o'clock p.m. at Fletcher Law Office, 1200 Overland Avenue, Burley, Idaho.

TERMS OF SALE: The property shall be sold AS IS to the highest bidder in cash payable at closing. Closing shall take place not later than forty-five (45) days following the date of bid opening. The Estates will pay for title insurance and shall convey the property free and clear of all liens and encumbrances other than easements and rights of way of record and accruing property taxes. The Estates and the buyer shall each pay one-half of all closing costs. Taxes and assessments shall be prorated as of the date of sale. THE SALE IS WITHOUT WARRANTY OF ANY KIND.

TO SUBMIT BIDS: All bids must be in writing, should be dated and labeled "Carpenter Estates Property Bid," must state the total amount bid, the name, address, phone number, and tax identification number of the bidder, and must be accompanied by a cashier's check payable to Fletcher Law Office Trust Account in the amount of Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00). The Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00) shall be held as earnest money upon acceptance of a bid. All other earnest money deposits shall be returned to unsuccessful bidders. The earnest money shall be applied to the purchase price at the time of closing. If a successful bidder does not close the sale, the earnest money shall be forfeited. The bid must be mailed to Estates of Irvin Earl and Thelma Carpenter c/o Fletcher Law Office, PO Box 248, Burley, Idaho 83318-0248 or delivered to Fletcher Law Office, 1200 Overland Avenue, Burley, Idaho. All bids must be received prior to the time for bid opening.

FOR MORE INFORMATION: To inspect the property or for more information concerning the property contact Debbie Carpenter, Personal Representative, at 208-825-5445. For more information concerning the bidding process contact Kent Fletcher, 208-678-3250.

THE ESTATES RESERVE THE RIGHT TO REJECT ANY AND ALL BIDS.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on Thursday, June 15, 2000, at the hour of 10:00 o'clock a.m. of said day, at the offices of the Successor Trustee, Alliance Title & Escrow Corp., 311 2nd Street North, Twin Falls County, Idaho, said Trustee will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, for cash in lawful money of the United States of America, all payable at the time of sale, the following described real property situated in the County of Twin Falls, State of Idaho, and described as follows, to-wit:

Lots 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30 and 31, Block 95, Hollister Townsite, Twin Falls County, Idaho, according to the official plat thereof recorded in Book 2 of Plats, page 15, records of Twin Falls County, Idaho.

The Trustee has no knowledge of a more particular description of the above described real property, but for purposes of compliance with Idaho Code Section 60-113, the Trustee has been informed that the street address of 2449 Salmon Ave., Hollister, Idaho, may sometimes be associated with said real property.

Said sale will be made, without covenant or warranty regarding title, possession or encumbrances, to satisfy the obligation secured by and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in the Deed of Trust executed by Michael and Tonya Brown, to Boise Title and Escrow, as Trustee, said Trustee having resigned and Alliance Title and Escrow Corp. having been appointed Trustee for the benefit and security of Hopkins Mortgage Fund, Inc., as Beneficiary which beneficial interest has passed by merger to Hopkins Mortgage Fund, L.L.C.; said Deed of Trust having been filed of record on August 13, 1996 as Instrument No. 1996014061, Official Records of Twin Falls County, Idaho. The naming of the above Grantor(s) is done to comply with Idaho Code Section 45-1506(4)(a); no representation is made as to the responsibility of Grantor(s) for this obligation.

The default for which the sale is to be made is that no monthly installment payments under a Deed of Trust Note dated August 12, 1996, in the amount of $547.30 per month, including both principal and interest, for October, November & December of 1999, and each month thereafter have been made, together with accruing late charges in the amount of $21.69 per month for the months of October, November & December, and each month thereafter until paid.

The total balance owing as of the date hereof on the obligation secured by said Deed of Trust is the amount of $44,862.56 in principal, plus accrued interest at the rate of $15.99 per diem from February 3, 2000, plus service charges, late charges, and any other costs or expenses associated with this foreclosure as provided by the Deed of Trust or Deed of Trust Note, or by Idaho law.

Dated this 7th day of February, 2000.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE®

Bobby Wolff

> "Too much light often blinds gentlemen of this sort. They cannot see the forest for the trees."
> — Christoph M. Wieland

"I couldn't risk an underlead," offered an unrepentant West. "If your club deuce were singleton, you'd get a third-round ruff. If you had three, cashing my ace would cost nothing."

What was it that West failed to see?

West led his club king and continued with his ace when East played the deuce. Desperately, West cashed his heart ace, bringing another deuce from East. There were no more tricks for the defense. But, as a consolation, West did save an overtrick by cashing his heart ace.

West gets poor marks for stodgy defense. Had he paid more attention to the significance of East's club deuce, he would have found the defense to beat the game.

Although a deuce is usually a discouraging signal, in today's setting it couldn't be. Had East held Q-10-2 (or even Q-8-2 if South falsecards), he would have encouraged a continuation with his middle club. When East played the deuce, it could only be from Q-2 or a singleton deuce. Therefore, knowing East was bereft of high cards, West should have underled his club ace at trick two. East would have won his queen, and the "automatic" heart shift would have netted one down.

Might East have played his club queen at trick one to signal a possible doubleton? No. The queen should not be used to signal a doubleton. When a defender drops his queen under partner's king, he promises either the jack or a singleton, alerting partner that it is safe to underlead the ace.
